Hatton Canyon Freeway EIS still in limbo

By DAVID LELAND

LACK OF communication continues to plague release of the final environmental impact statement for the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway, as federal agencies square off on critical issues.

Since the release of the draft EIS in 1987, the final EIS, which is being overseen by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) in Washington, D.C., has been delayed any number of times as obstacles are thrown in its way.

Now, however, FHWA officials say they are poised for a fall submission of the report for public review.

"We anticipate a release shortly," said R.C. Slovinski, FHWA engineer. "We're going ahead."

However, Slovinski's plan is based on FHWA agreement with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Environmental Protection Agency officials, who had both raised considerable concerns regarding construction of a freeway through Hatton Canyon.

Less than a year ago, the Army Corps said that the "Hatton Canyon Freeway construction would have far-reaching significant impacts on the project area's resources."

Under Caltrans' plan, 21 acres of native Monterey Pine would be lost, as well as 160 acres of wild habitat and 13 acres of riparian woodland.

Caltrans' proposed freeway runs through the canyon, with interchanges at Carpenter Street and Carmel Valley Road, with a new bridge at the Carmel River. Since the draft EIS was released, construction costs have soared from about $24 million to a current price tag of between $37 million and $40 million, according to a Hatton Canyon Coalition report.

And while Slovinski told The Pine Cone that both federal agencies "promised" Aug. 7 to provide him with letters indicating their concurrence that the canyon freeway is the most "practicable" solution the the area's traffic woes, EPA officials disagree.

"We haven't come to any formal position on this," said Lois Grunwald, EPA spokesperson, adding that she had no idea why Slovinski would indicate otherwise.

Army Corps representatives could not be reached for comment.

Slovinski indicated that the final EIS would be released within one month of receipt of the letters from the EPA and Army Corps.

'We anticipate a release shortly. We're going ahead.'

R.C. Slovinski

MEANWHILE, Coastal Commission staffers say they are dumbfounded that Caltrans has not addressed eight stipulations the Coastal Commission placed on the project almost three years ago.

"We (staff) haven't heard 'Boo' from them (Caltrans)," said Rick Hyman, coastal staffer. "I don't know what they are doing about them."

Hyman did agree, however, that Caltrans had completed two traffic studies concerning Carmel and Big Sur traffic. But other issues such as bicycle/pedestrian access, minimizing habitat intrusion, flood hazard measures, lowering speed limits and a proposed left-turn lane have not been presented.

Hyman said the stipulations are "legally binding."

Hatton Canyon Corp. spokesman Noel Mapstead, who has filed two lawsuits concerning Hatton Canyon, concurred with Hyman.

"The lawsuit makes every stipulation come to a public hearing," he said. "It keeps the whole process in check."

Caltrans officials said that, while communication may have been formal, the state transportation agency had not forgotten the Coastal Commission.

"Obviously we need to tie up some loose ends here," said Tom Pollock, district supervisor. "We are in the process of completing them (stipulations)."

David Murray, Caltrans regional transportation planner, said that he believed that the answers to the stipulations will be contained in the final EIS and further design review.

"It's not a concern," he said.

Slovinski said that the lack of clarification regarding Coastal Commission concerns should not delay the release of the final EIS.

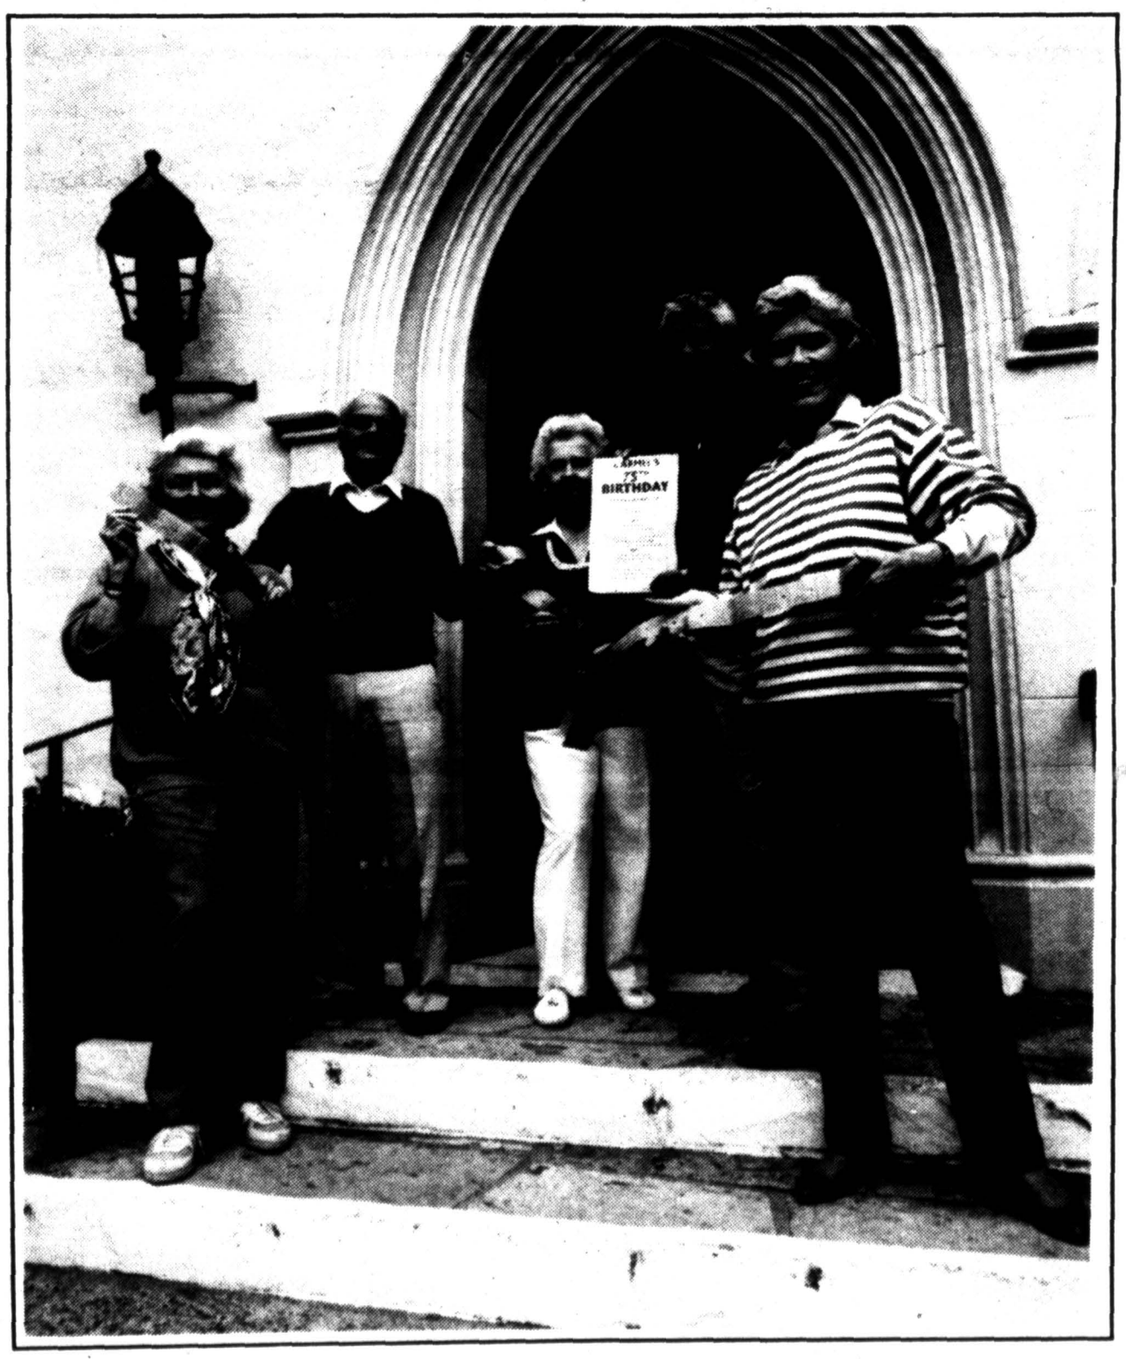
"The information we have received to date is sufficient for release," he said.

Hatton Canyon Coalition forum scheduled

THE HATTON Canyon Coalition, Inc. will sponsor a public forum on "Alternatives to Caltrans' Hatton Canyon Freeway" from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27, at Sunset Cultural Center.

Representatives from traffic engineers Wilbur Smith Associates and architect/planners Skidmore, Owings & Merrill will discuss their traffic analysis and evaluation of alternative approaches to improving traffic conditions in the Highway 1/Carmel corridor. They will respond to audience questions.

Included in the presentation will be a discussion of widening the existing Highway 1 with interchanges at Carmel Valley Road and Carpenter Street. Other topics include a downsized Hatton Canyon freeway, as well as interim low-cost, low-impact improvement options, which could be undertaken to alleviate the existing traffic problems.



Planning a bash

TICKETS ARE on sale for both the chicken barbecue lunch and Diamond Dance, both slated for the Oct. 5 celebration of Carmel's 75th birthday, at city hall and Sunset Cultural Center. Here, from left to right, are some of the party planners, Maxine Jennings, Glenn and Marian Leidig, Merv Sutton and Fleece Dennis, who show off the poster and tickets for the event. Mayor offers library board nominations

CARMEL Mayor Jean Grace has nominated Barbara Little and Cecil Wahle to fill two vacant positions on the Harrison Memorial Library Board of Trustees.

The two three-year terms, currently filled by James Billwiller and Merryll Cottrell, who both have declined to serve another term, become available in September.

"With these two appointments we will bring the total on the library board to five, with a good mix of people," said Grace , who will introduce the nominees during the Sept. 3 Carmel City Council meeting. "Three of the members would be residents of the city and two will be residents within the sphere of influence."

Little, the daughter of late businessman and former library board member Dick Little, is a local merchant.

Wahle is an antiquarian bookseller and has spent most of her life deeply involved with books, according to Grace.

Insipid drool

Dear Editor:

Theater reviewers who abuse their position by turning in articles that serve only the reviewer, are coming under fire in a number of U.S. cities. Monterey is among them. There are several fine critics on the peninsula, and the few bad ones make it difficult for all. Theatergoers and actors alike are tired of reading the reviews of these individuals that are nothing more than the use or misuse of a public forum to drone on about their personal problems or hang-ups.

Jim Kinney is one of these. When Kinney first started reviewing on a regular basis, a few of my actor friends and I thought it was the greatest thing since portable dressing rooms at the Forest Theater. We could not wait for his reviews to come out. We would get the paper, sip a few adult beverages, read his stuff and howl like mad for hours. It was great fun. Kinney's articles were so far off the mark and comical, it almost seemed like he was trying to do this on purpose.

When I would see him on the street, it was slaps on the back and "how are you ol' boy," no need to go into his reviews and embarrass him—there's no point in that. Our fun was kept private and that was that. However, Kinney's more recent stuff has degenerated into insipid drool that still doesn't speak to the play he is supposed to be reviewing. His writing has also taken on a quality of "I'M THE CRITIC! BEWARE MY WRATH! WATCH OUT! HERE I COME! DUCK!"

No longer amusing, he seems to be taking himself seriously, and has become a dull nuisance, wanting to be a voice in social, political and religious arenas. No problem. Go do your thing! But, this sort of thing has no place in a theater review.

Kinney's inability to separate his personal affinity with religion has, it would seem, caused him to hiss venom at a couple of the actors in Becket, a play he was asked to review at the Forest Theater. True to form, his main concern has little to do with the play itself and, he cannot help himself, it becomes the bottom line in his article.

Judging from his review, Kinney does not appear to understand the point of this play. It is about the friendship of two people and the effect it has on those who surround them in both the "happy times" and then in the times when one discovers a passion and leaves the friendship to pursue that passion. Author Jean Anouilh, discusses these emotions in a larger-than-life setting. Using the historical figures of Henry II, King of England, and Thomas a Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury, the two most powerful people in the land in their time, and all the rest of the characters in Becket, Anouilh reveals his notions of the sometimes devastating and far-reaching effects that friendship-ended can have.

It is historically true that Henry did cause the death of Becket. Anouilh uses this merely as a vehicle to discuss the deeper, underlying reason for his play. Kinney, however, jumps into the shallow end of the pool and wants to make this a historical drama about Church and State only. He gives us a bit of information about Pope Gregory IV and some of the problems he had. Kinney then goes on to say that this is why he had problems with the production of Becket.

Kinney fails to make clear just what it is he is trying to accomplish in his review, and no wonder! One has nothing to do with the other. One is historical account, the other theatrical device. It would be just as ludicrous to compare/contrast the factual account of Pope Gregory's problems with the fictional ones of Ralph Cramden and Ed Norton on bowling night.

Kinney goes on to whine about the way some of the religious figures in the play are portrayed. Instead of taking issue with the author for having written the characters in an unflattering way, Kinney goes after the actors who play them! Not a good move, for two reasons. First, it demonstrates that he doesn't quite grasp the concept that authors write certain characters in a certain way to further the plot and add dimension. A theater reviewer should have this one down.

Secondly, it reveals that Kinney has problems when religious figures are not played to his liking. This is reinforced by Kinney's stamping his little feet about the way other religious figures are portrayed in other plays. He should leave that personal luggage at home. Why doesn't he ask himself the obvious question — why do so many authors write them like that?

The actors whom Kinney cries about are Kevin Hanstick and James Brady. Both are to be congratulated and applauded for their efforts. They bring Anouilh's characters to life as the playwright intended them.

There, I've had my say on this and it's time to move on. I am putting Kinney's article behind me, placing it where that can be achieved . . . in King Henry's "Throne Room."

Gem of a play

Dear Editor:

Every so often the Monterey Peninsula performing arts groups dish up an outstanding and sensitive gem of a play.

One of these is the Carl Cherry Foundation-Forest Theater Guild production of The Glass Menagerie, the Tennessee Williams masterpiece.

This presentation, characteristic of small theater, provides an intimate and appealing evening. A well-balanced and flawless cast, an attractive '30s period set, plus stunning direction and production provide a performance which sets this effort well above the norm.

Library deserves support

Dear Editor:

We residents of Carmel are all concerned about the future and quality of life in our community, but we sometimes differ on how best to preserve it.

One thing we can all agree on without argument, though, is the value to us of our Harrison Memorial Library. Our library has a long tradition of public use and support, not only by residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea, but by those of greater Carmel.

Today, our library is in trouble. Now as never before, it needs the support of everyone in the community. Without direct help from all of us, it could become a second-rate facility.

Harrison Memorial Library has already had to make radical cuts in money for new books, reference works, newspapers and periodicals. These are things all members of the community come downtown to use and enjoy.

You can help today. Make a tax-deductible contribution to the Carmel Public Library Foundation. Even better, start a plan for annual giving or make a bequest to the Library's endowment. In any case, you'll be doing yourself, and your community, a big favor.

Totally inappropriate

Dear Editor:

Aside from Stephen H. Dolley's point of view, expressed in his letter to the Pine Cone July 25, I would suggest he recall the details of the Shakespearean play from which one of his remarks is derived ("Shylocks and their pounds of flesh"). He would realize how totally inappropriate it is to the situation. In addition, he may have unintentionally saddened Jewish people who have been maligned for centuries by such prejudicial expressions.

The way things were

Dear Editor:

Oh, how we loved Carmel Woods: How peaceful it used to be! And now, a house has been squeezed into every nook and corner. So many trees are gone—wonderful giants that had been there for so many years and most of them not even in anyone's way.

And then there are the fast, "sporty" drivers. How carefully people used to drive in Carmel Woods. How courteous and considerate people used to be toward one another, how neighborly. No more!

How beautiful it once was opposite our little house. Trees and flowers, full of color. And now? The trees, cut down, a huge monster of a house, a gray stone wall, rocks and dirt, cars and trucks.

On the back side of the house we now have fine, considerate neighbors who play their so-called music anytime, night or day, loud enough for all the world to have to listen to whether they want to or not!

Last but not least, our sweet little squirrels, that were absolutely a part of Carmel Woods, have been killed off, supposedly by some disease!

I am thankful for the neighbors on either side of our house.

Supes OK $1.2 million for Big Sur parcels

By DAVID LELAND

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors this week approved $1.2 million for the purchase of two Big Sur properties under the guidelines of Proposition 70.

Approved by voters in 1988, Proposition 70 compensates landowners for the sale of their undeveloped, yet buildable land along the rugged Big Sur coast.

"Most coastal communities within the state either downzone or condemn land in order to reduce building," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman. "As a result of Proposition 70, we have been able to avoid the pitfalls of giving up one goal for another. We are now able to fulfill the promises of the Big Sur Land Use Plan; this is a unique achievement."

The current purchase totals 47 acres of ocean-front property. One parcel borders the San Luis Obispo County Line, while the other lies just south of Rocky Point.

The Big Sur Land Trust, a member-supported, non-profit agency that has facilitated the purchase of 8,200 acres of county coastline, facilitated each transaction by working to obtain independent appraisals.

Under state law, each parcel must be wholly visible from Highway 1 and have no alternate building sites out of the viewshed. Parcels must also have legal access, water and septic tank capability and marketable title.

Once purchased, an irrevocable scenic easement is imposed on each property, prohibiting all future development.

The land trust is currently pursuing negotiations on three other viewshed acreages and contacting other viewshed owners, with about 85 parcels remaining to be acquired. To date, $3.3 million has been spent for eight properties from the $25 million allocated to Monterey County to keep the land open space.

Studies on proposed desal plant to cost $385,000

By FRANK GEORGE

THE WATER DISTRICT wants to spend $385,000 on a project that has yet to be approved by peninsula voters, according to General Manager Jim Cofer.

Cofer said the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board of directors will be asked to spend $635,000 on new water projects. He said $385,000 of that will go toward a desalination plant, while $250,000 is ear-marked for mapping and soil studies at a new Los Padres Dam site.

District voters already approved the concept of a dam on the Carmel River in an advisory vote, but they won't get a chance to give the go-ahead to desalination until next summer, according to Cofer.

Almost half of the desalination money will go toward contracting an environmental impact report for the 3,000 acre-foot-per-year desalination plant. Then, $150,000 would be spent on designing the facility, Cofer said.

Moreover, $75,000 is needed to drill test holes in the beach to check the quality and quantity of water available for the project's well system. Cofer said all this will be discussed at the Aug. 26 board meeting.

The meeting starts at 7 p.m. Monday at the Monterey City Council Chambers on Pacific Street in Monterey. Earlier, the directors will hear variance requests at a 2:30 p.m. session held at the district conference room at 187 Eldorado St. in Monterey.

He said the district will recommend putting the desalination public vote issue on the January, 1992 agenda. The directors can then plan the election for June of next year, Cofer said.

The board will also receive a 900-page environmental impact report and study for a new long-term water supply at the meeting. The document considers environmental, growth and traffic impacts stemming from nine different projects the district is considering.

Henrietta Stern, district senior project coordinator, said the aforementioned dam and desalination plant top the list of alternatives. The district thinks the combination of a 16,000 acre-foot new Los Padres reservoir and the 3,000 acre-foot desalination plant are an "environmentally preferred feasible alternative," Stern said.

The reports will be sold at district headquarters. The full text is priced at $50, while an appendix volume sells for $20. A 55-page summary costs $5.50, and there is no charge for a 10-page overview of the document.

A list of the various projects considered follows:

• A 16,000 acre-foot new Los Padres Reservoir and a desalination plant with a 3,000 acre-foot annual output;

•A 24,000 acre-foot New Los Padres Dam;

• A 9,000 acre-foot New Los Padres Reservoir with a 3,000 acre-foot desalination plant;

• A 23,000 acre-foot new San Clemente Reservoir;

• A 6,000 acre-foot Cachagua Creek Reservoir with a 3,000 acre-foot desalination plant;

• An 11,000 acre-foot San Clemente Creek Reservoir with pumped storage;

• A 10,500 acre-foot Chupines Creek Reservoir with pumped storage.

• A 25,000 acre-foot Canada Reservoir with pumped storage; and

• A 7,000 acre-foot desalination project.

Public hearings for the document will be held at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Oct. 21 at the council chambers. Workshops dealing with the report will be held Oct. 7 at 7 p.m., Oct. 9 at 2 p.m. and Oct. 10 at 7 p.m. The hearings will be held at the council chambers, the Crossroads Community Room in Carmel and the Oldemeyer Community Center in Seaside, respectively.

Quail Meadows receives final OK

By JOHN DETRO

ONE OF the planet's most exclusive residential projects — the 58-lot Quail Meadows Subdivision in Carmel Valley — was ready for groundbreaking Wednesday.

When county supervisors gave Quail Meadows its final approval Tuesday by accepting the final map, the action represented a study in contrasts.

On one hand, this week's nod came quickly. On the other, Quail Meadows developers had a 14-year history within the overall permit process.

When all improvements have been installed, according to developer spokesman Ed Haber, each empty lot will sell for between $400,000-$500,000. "Full buildout," he added, will take at least a decade.

The 600-acre parcel is on the south side of Carmel Valley Road off Rancho San Carlos Road. Plans call for a lake, 40-room seminar center, employee housing (nine units).

More than half the property will be open space, some lots being donated to Big Sur Land Trust. The county attached 104 conditions to the Quail Meadows permit; included here was a $700,000 irrigation system to water the golf course. (Haber was on record as saying the subdivision will need only about 30 acre feet of water annually.)

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman once lauded the project for following all policies of Carmel Valley Master Plan. She noted in a statement two years ago that Quail Meadows would not be visible from Carmel Valley Road.

CHS gears up for final 50th anniversary fling

By DAVID LELAND

ALMOST A year after the kick-off of Carmel High School's 50-year anniversary, alumni officials are gearing up for a grand finale.

Originally scheduled for last spring, a dinner party has now been set for 6:30 to 11 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 31, at the Carmel Youth Center. Admission is $15.

"This is the culmination of all of the celebration that has gone on throughout the year," said Pat Beebe, CHS vice principal, referring to last fall's homecoming party, parade and a musical concert at Sunset Center.

There is, however, a serious wrinkle included in next week's festivities — the goal of helping upgrade the aging facilities on campus.

Toward that end, a bevy of CHS cheerleaders will lead "nostalgia" tours of the school beginning at 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 31, in the CHS gym.

"Since Measure A (a parcel tax defeated in June) failed, we really want to take a look at some of the deferred maintenance," Beebe said. "We're hoping the nostalgia

Mission Ranch teen tennis players impress coach

By BASIL PAPPAS

SOMEDAY, Kelly Sweeney hopes to shine among the Hollywood stars.

But at the age of 15, this Robert Louis Stevenson School sophomore is already in the spotlight for her performance on the courts.

In this, just her first year in the girls 16 and under division, Sweeney has won her final matches in the summer tournaments at Yuba City and Country Oaks.

In fact, her only setback came against Brazil's top-ranked player, who defeated her in straight sets in the finals of the Marin Hard Courts tournament July 26.

"She has a very good attitude ... she's a real fighter on the court," says John Monnier, her coach at Mission Ranch.

Sweeney is one of a handful of highly talented junior tennis players who are products of the Mission Ranch tennis program, headed by Monnier, a former pro player. The private Carmel court boasts eight current players who have made it to the National Junior tennis tour, and also rank high in Northern California.

"We have a lot of really talented players," says Monnier, adding, "I've never seen this may good kids in such a small club." Monnier owned the Mission Ranch courts for 10 years until selling them to Clint Eastwood a couple of years ago.

"Clint's very supportive of the junior program," Monnier says, adding that stepping down from the throne has given him more time to spend coaching the players.

Monnier brings with him a strong background and experience in the game. He learned from top-notch tennis instructor Don Leary and went on to play on the professional tour.

This has been a major plus for his current pupils, who say he has not only improved their fundamentals but helped reduce tournament-induced stress.

Take Sweeney, for example, who had played tennis from the age of 5 or 6. By age 13 she was already active on the Northern California tour. However, she then came down with a case of mono, and decided to quit for a year.

"I took a year off because of the competition," she says.

After returning to the courts the following year, Monnier worked on making her an all-round player, improving each aspect of her game so she would feel more confident facing competitors.

"She really worked hard at ... making big changes in her game," says Monnier.

Sweeney says she now deals better with stress and competition.

"I think John's really great. He's made (tennis) fun for me," she compliments.

Sweeney also attributes much of her success to support from her fellow members at Mission Ranch, with whom she now frequently travels to tournaments.

Her fellow tour members at Mission Ranch include Jerry Ledzinski, number 2 ranked player in Northern California junior tennis in the 18 and under division who is now attending the U.S. Air Force Academy. His brother Justin also ranks high.

Kelly Sweeney shines on competitive circuit

Another pair of brothers, Matt and Chris Chatham, demonstrate that talent seems to run in the family. Matt returned from the National Zone Championships, a team tournament held July 20-26 in Tucson, Arizona, and his older brother Chris played in a separate national event recently. Each ranks about sixth in Northern California in their respective divisions.

Other top ranked players to make it to the national scene include Eugene Balshem, Nicholas Garrone, and Briana Schaffer.

'We have a lot of really talented players. I've never seen this may good kids in such a small club.'

— John Monnier
Mission Ranch tennis coach

Sweeney herself plays in about two or three national tournaments annually, and ranks in the top 10 statewide. With three and one-half years left as a "junior" player, her goal is to become the top-ranked player in Northern California Junior Tennis 18 and under division.

However, this young lady does not foresee tennis beyond college, as she hopes to make a career of acting.

"I think it would be great to be a star in the movies," dreams Sweeney, who has already landed a standby part in an upcoming picture, and has hosted a radio show for the RLS-sponsored radio station KSPB.

But whether she dazzles the crowd with her racket or with her smile, Kelly Sweeney will certainly give Mission Tennis Ranch something on which to pride themselves.

Northeast Neighbors Association just that: association of neighbors

By DAVID LELAND

IF YOU want to really rankle the ire of one of the 180 members of the Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association, just mention the group in the same breath as the Carmel Residents Association.

It's not that NECNA members have anything against the CRA. In fact, some members belong to both groups. It's just that the neighborhood association is just that, a neighborhood melding of people.

"We're getting to be associated with the CRA; I don't like that, we're an entirely different cup of tea," said Noel Van Bibber, president. "We focus on neighborhood problems and try to correct them. We're definitely not a political group; we don't take stands on issues unless they apply to our neighborhood."

During the past five years since its inception, the association has supported the preservation of the First Murphy House, worked at developing Vista Lobos Park and dealt with traffic on Carpenter Street.

"It was at one of our monthly meetings some years ago that we heard that the planning commission was about to take a vote on the development of the (Hayward) lumberyard property," said Nina Almond, treasurer. "After hearing this we sprang into action, brought the community together and, as a result, we have a lovely open space park and an attractive parking lot, instead of condos and apartment houses."

The NECNA also conducts a yearly rummage sale, throws parties and barbecues. The association also contributes to events such as "Leon Panetta Day," when the congressman speaks to citizenry about issues of national importance.

Technically, the NECNA's boundaries begin at Torres Street and Ocean Avenue and stretch forever northeasterly to the city limits — but the group's leaders are not too picky about who enters the fold.

"We're happy to have anybody join us," said Almond, adding that many absentee homeowners rely on her group's monthly newsletter, The Pelican, for their information.

But while the group welcomes politicians, civic leaders and city staffers to make presentations during its monthly meetings, endorsement is not a part of the package.

NORTHEAST NEIGHBORS Association is not a political organization, but a group of neighbors that get involved in neighborhood issues and problems, just ask Noel Van Bibber and Nina Almond, board members.

"We do not take political stands on issues; members make up their own minds at the ballot box," Van Bibber said.

NECNA's board of directors includes Van Bibber; Paul Hazdovac, vice president; Almond; Carolyn Graham, recording secretary; and Margaret White, corresponding secretary.

Van Bibber said that one of the mandates of the 2016 Committee is to urge various neighborhoods in Carmel to organize residents into groups such as NECNA.

"With a neighborhood group you are able to concentrate your energies on little problems," Van Bibber said. "Those are very important."

Sixth-grade orientation set for Aug. 28

THE ANNUAL sixth-grade/new-student orientation will begin at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 28, at Carmel Middle School cafeteria.

A brief overview of the sixth-grade program will be followed by a presentation from the student leadership class. Schedules will be available for sixth-grade students and the program will conclude with a tour of the campus.

Scholarships available for student leaders

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Bill Honig announces an opportunity for juniors and seniors holding elective offices in California public or private high schools to receive a $2,000 scholarship and a trip to Washington, D.C.

The scholarship and trip are part of the United States Senate Youth Program, designed to honor students for their leadership, community involvement, and academic achievement. This program, established in 1962 by Senate Resolution 324 and funded through the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, provides scholarships for high school juniors or seniors from each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the Department of Defense Overseas Dependent Schools. The delegates will visit Washington, D.C., February 1-8, 1992, for an "insider's view" of the government, particularly the U.S. Senate.

Interested and eligible students are nominated by school principals who will receive application information through their district offices by the end of August. Each high school, with the help of a local selection committee, identifies one candidate to represent the school. The school principal must submit the nominee's application to the California Department of Education, postmarked no later than Oct. 11.

The statewide screening of applicants will occur in October. Two delegates and two alternates for California will be selected by Superintendent Honig. Announcement of the winners will be made by the U.S. Senate Advisory Committee in cooperation with the William Randolph Hearst Foundation in December 1991. The California State Board of Education will honor the outstanding leadership of the two Senate Youth program winners, along with that of the two alternates, at its meeting on Friday, Jan. 10, 1992, in Sacramento.

For more information regarding the U.S. Senate Youth Program, contact Ira Clark in the department's History-Social Science Unit at (916) 323-0959. Those seeking information regarding applications should contact their local high school principal.

tours will bring home the fact that we are in a serious state of disrepair."

Of prime importance, Beebe said, is giving the school a new paint job, although there are many other areas of the campus that need renovation.

Alumni are being asked to donate from $25 to $1,000 toward sprucing up the campus. Checks can be made payable to: Beautification Drive, Carmel High School ASB, Attn: Joanne, P.O. Box 222780, Carmel, CA 93922.

Reservations for the dinner can be mailed to the same address or tickets can be purchased at the door.

There is one hitch: the alumni organizers have been unable to locate hundreds of addresses of former students.

"This is an untapped source of support for the district and the school," said Kim Spindler, assistant to the CUSD superintendent.

Indeed, people move away and are never heard from again.

"In some cases entire classes have been lost," said Beebe, adding that leaders of each year's alumni class are being asked to submit lists of their members.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

Water supply project draft EIR/EIS completed

YOUR CORRESPONDENT has good news today! After several years of effort made difficult by the continuing drought, the Supplemental Draft Environmental Impact Report and Statement (EIR/EIS) for the long-term Water Supply Project is completed! On Monday, Aug. 26, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board will formally receive the document so that it may be distributed to the public for review and comment. The period for written comments runs from Aug. 27 to Oct. 23, 1991.

Copies will be provided to responsible and interested public agencies, special-interest groups concerned with local water issues and several local libraries. Additional copies of this 900-page document may be purchased by individuals at the cost of production (tentatively about $50 for the main text and about $20 for the appendix volume; the final cost is not known at this writing). A 60-page executive summary will also be available for about $6, and a brief (about 10 pages) overview will be available at no charge.

Two formal public hearings to receive oral comments are set for Monday, Oct. 21, 1991 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Monterey City Council Chambers (date pending Board approval). In addition, three informal, educational workshops will be held. The goal of the workshops is to answer questions about the EIR/EIS prior to the public hearing for oral comments and the close of the written comment period.

The workshops are scheduled as follows: Monday, Oct. 7 — Monterey City Council Chambers, 7 p.m.

Wednesday, Oct. 9 — Crossroads Community Room (Carmel), 2 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 10— Oldemeyer Community Center (Seaside), 7 p.m.

TEN ALTERNATIVES ANALYZED IN DETAIL

Let's learn a bit about this important document. What does it do, and what does it say? First of all, the EIR/EIS analyzes 10 water supply alternatives that were selected through a multiphase process over several years. They include:

• 24,000 acre-foot (AF) New Los Padres Reservoir •16,000 AF New Los Padres Reservoir with 3 million gallon per day (MGD) Desalination Plant •9,000 AF New Los Padres Reservoir with 3 MGD Desalination •23,000 AF New San Clemente Reservoir

•6,000 AF Cachagua Creek Reservoir with 3 MGD Desalination •11,000 AF San Clemente Creek Reservoir with pumped storage

•10,500 AF Chupines Creek Reservoir with pumped storage

•25,000 AF Canada Reservoir with pumped storage

•7 MGD Desalination Project

•No Project

CONTENTS OF THE EIR/EIS

The EIR/EIS includes an introduction, a chapter on why a long-term water supply project is needed, an overview of the alternatives selection process, and a project description of each alternative, including costs. The water supply performance of each alternative is evaluated at several levels of future demand. The environmental impacts and mitigation measures for each alternative were analyzed in detail for the following topics:

•Geology and Seismicity
•Hydrology and Water Quality
•Fish and Aquatic Life
•Vegetation and Wildlife
•Traffic
•Air Quality and Climate
•Noise
•Visual Effects
•History and Archaeology
•Public Health and Safety
•Energy Use
•Land Use, Planning and Recreation
•Socioeconomics
•Cumulative Impacts of Growth Allowed by a Project

Additional chapters identify the environmentally superior alternatives, unavoidable adverse impacts and other designations to comply with state and federal environmental laws. A separate technical appendix contains information that supports certain chapters.

SELECTED PROJECTS

An EIR/EIS must identify the project that has the least adverse effects on the environment. The document tentatively identifies the "environmentally preferablE feasible alternative" as the 16,000 AF New Los Padres Reservoir with a 3 MGD desalination plant, pending confirmation of the feasibility and impacts of the desalination component. This project was selected because it would inundate less habitat than the 24,000 AF reservoir, but would still provide many of the downstream benefits resulting from flow released from the new dam.

Until the feasibility of desalination is confirmed, the District won't pick one reservoir size just yet. Thus the "overall preferred project" is tentatively identified in the EIR/EIS as a New Los Padres Dam and Reservoir ranging in size from 16,000 to 24,000 AF. The final project size will be determined in the Final EIR/EIS, based on the efforts to confirm the feasibility of desalination (i.e., the Desalination Project EIR and preliminary design report, and refinements to project operations.)

Other projects, including dams on tributaries, offstream reservoirs or the large 7 MGD Desalination plant, were not selected due to poor water supply performance, high cost, logistical or legal constraints, reliability issues, site availability concerns, and/or adverse environmental consequences.

FUTURE ACTION TOWARD CONSTRUCTION OF A PROJECT

The acceptance of the Supplemental Draft EIR/EIS is an important milestone because this document is the foundation for all decisions that lead to construction of a long-term water supply project. However, it is only the first step in a complex (and often lengthy) process.

As noted above, there is about a two-month comment period to receive questions and feedback from public agencies, groups and individuals. Based on comments on the Supplemental Draft EIR/EIS, information from the Desalination Project EIR and preliminary design efforts, as well as additional geotechnical work at the New Los Padres damsite, a Final EIR/EIS will be prepared by mid-1992.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will use the Final EIR/EIS as a key factor in its Record of Decision on whether the dam will be permitted, and what the permit conditions will be. Concurrently, the State Water Resources Control Board and other agencies will use the Draft and Final EIR/EIS as a basis for their profit decisions.

A project must have the financial support of the electorate; the District envisions using information in the EIR/EIS and other documents to provide voters with a complete picture of the water supply benefits, project costs and environmental effects (both adverse and beneficial) of various water supply options.

Alzheimer's support group meets

The Alzheimer's Association of Monterey County is a non-profit organization committed to assisting caregivers and family of persons with Alzheimer's Disease or related dementia. Dementia is a medical term for the group of symptoms of deterioration of intellectual function such as memory loss, confusion, and impaired judgment that is severe enough to interfere with work of social activities. The group offers information and support to help caregivers cope with the problems associated with dementia. The Monterey office is located in Mariposa Hall at 801 Lighthouse Ave. The group meets 1:30 to 3 p.m. the second Tuesday of the month and 5:15 to 6:45 p.m. the fourth Monday. Wahle, Little nominated to library board

CARMEL Mayor Jean Grace has nominated Barbara Little and Cecil Wahle to fill two vacant positions on the Harrison Memorial Library Board of Trustees.

The two three-year terms, currently filled by James Billwiller and Merryll Cottrell, who both have declined to serve another term, become available in September.

"With these two appointments we will bring the total on the library board to five, with a good mix of people," said Grace, who will introduce the nominees during the Sept. 3 Carmel City Council meeting. "Three of the members would be residents of the city and two will be residents within the sphere of influence."

Little, the daughter of late businessman and former library board member Dick Little, is a local merchant.

Wahle is an antiquarian bookseller and has spent most of her life deeply involved with books, according to Grace.

Pets require special summer care

While you're trying to find a way to cool off during the summer months, the SPCA of Monterey County, A Humane Society, asks that you also pay attention to your pet's summer needs.

Heat Sensitivity—Dogs and cats are extremely vulnerable to heat stress. Keep pets inside or in the shade during extremely hot weather. Plenty of cool water should also be available. When you take your dog for his or her daily exercise, be aware that summer heat and humidity can sap your dog's strength and bring on heat exhaustion. Hot asphalt can burn your pet's footpads; shorthaired dogs are vulnerable to sunburn.

Undereating—Don't be alarmed if your pet's eating patterns change. Animals often eat less during the summer, but it is still important to watch out for other signs of illness. You might want to adjust your pet's eating schedule accordingly. Again, don't forget to have a fresh supply of water available all day long.

Skin Care—Fleas and ticks are plentiful during the hot summer months. Keeping your pet inside will help, but his or her skin should be examined regularly to catch potential problems. Have your vet check for internal parasites, and use only prescription worming medications—avoid the over-the-counter variety.

Eating Dangers—Cats and dogs often nibble grass, but some gardening chemicals are highly toxic. Don't allow your pet to rummage through garbage cans, as these can harbor spoiled food, bones and other perils. Because pets often chew wood, be aware that treated wood used in porches and lawn chairs contains arsenic and other dangerous chemicals. It can be deadly if it is not covered with an effective sealer.

Hazardous Heights—A cat's favorite spot is usually a sunny window sill, but every year cats (and dogs, for that matter) are injured or killed in falls from ledges and balconies. Pets should only be allowed near windows that are securely screened, and on porches or balconies only under supervision.

Most summer pet problems can be avoided with a few simple precautions and liberal doses of common sense. Any time you have a question about your pet's health, consult your veterinarian. Make it a safe and enjoyable summer for you and your pet.

Foxtails pose hazard to animals

A life-threatening menace to your best friend is lurking in the tall grasses throughout Monterey County. Unfortunately, people may not be aware of this danger until it has caused pain and suffering and sometimes even the death of a pet.

The foxtail, artfully designed by nature to disperse itself by sticking and burrowing, can harm your dog while he frolicks in tall grass. The barbed end burrows into ears, between foot pads, lodges itself behind the "third eyelid" and can actually migrate through the skin.

Any dog or cat who roams where tall grasses grow should be examined daily. Examine eyes, ears, feet, and run a comb or brush through the coat. Make it a daily ritual, at bedtime or at dinnertime.

If your pet displays any of these symptoms, take him or her to your veterinarian immediately:

- Pawing at the ears and shaking the head
- Rubbing and squinting the eyes
- Sneezing repeatedly and violently
- Constant licking of particular spots
- Discharge in the eyes
- Holding head to one side

Chewing houseplants is in bad taste!

CURIOSITY killed the cat, or so they say, and that's especially true when it comes to our pets nibbling poisonous houseplants. Your pet may swallow part of a toxic plant and survive with no significant problem, but that's just luck. Your pet's tolerance depends on the type of toxin in the plant and the amount ingested, as well as the size and weight of the pet.

Protect your pet from this kind of tragedy by making your home as safe as you would for your child. It's easy enough to keep plants out of Fido's reach, but a mischievous feline friend will find a way to reach them. Try treating the tips of the leaves with powered ginger. This method is safe for both pets and plants and the unpleasant taste provides a good deterrent. Mist the plant first, then apply the power to the leaf tips with your fingers. Reapply as necessary.

Water your plants at the sink and let them drain instead of using a saucer. Your pet may drink that water and become ill from the fertilizer.

Teach your pet that dirt isn't for digging and pots aren't for tipping. Make sure your plants are firmly rooted in heavy, wide-bottomed containers. Cover the soil of any problem plants with rough decorative rock.

Safe houseplants for your animals include: Chinese-Jade, Hawaiian Ti, African Violet, Creeping Charlie, Swedish Ivy, Baby Rubber Plant, Fishtail Fern, Ladder Fern, and Boston Fern. Among the toxic plants are Oleander, Hydrangea, English Ivy, and Caladium. Most cat health books offer a complete list of dangers. If any of the plants in your home or yard present a threat, replace them with something safer.

ASPIRIN WARNING

A visit to your veterinarian is in order if your cat seems under the weather. DO NOT give Tylenol, aspirin or Ibuprofen! Cats don't possess glucusonidase, the enzyme needed to process these medications, so they remain in the liver and poison the cat.

POISON CONTROL

Since my column this week deals with toxic substances, I want to pass along a very important telephone number. In such emergencies, help for your pet is available through the National Animal Poison Control Center: 1-800-548-2423. A veterinary toxicologist staffs the phone and the center is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. If it is determined that veterinary help is necessary for your pet, calls to the Center are subject to a $25 charge, payable by VISA or Mastercard. Based on the information you give over the phone you can receive immediate first-aid instructions and recommendations for short-term treatment. Calls can also be placed to your vet. The Center offers vet-to-vet medical advice for those pets taken directly to clinics.

SHOPPING SHENANIGANS

It's interesting how our pets get to know our routines. I go tothe market several times a week and my kitty-cats know that it's playtime when I get home. They line up and wait for me to unload the groceries, because as I do, I drop the empty, but open, paper (never plastic) bags on the floor. They love to crawl inside and explore, and they have a ball jumping on the bags and hiding from each other. Simple pleasures!

Stress management taught

Feeling overwhelmed by stress? Learn how to strengthen your coping skills in a class, "Stress Management — Keeping All the Pieces Together," being offered at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

The class will take place Wednesdays, 7 to 9 p.m., through Sept. 11, in the hospital's Terrace Pavilion Library.

Instructors will be registered nurses Barbara Parker and Nancy Moran.

Fee is $40, and participants may bring a friend or family member at no extra charge. To register or for more information, call 625-4708.

Mace training class offered

Individuals away from the security of a locked home or auto can reduce their chances of becoming victims of a criminal attack by carrying Mace.

The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula and the Pacific Grove Police Department are jointly sponsoring a Mace training class on Sept. 14 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Pacific Grove Community Center, 515 Junipero Ave., Pacific Grove.

The class fee is $25 and includes the Mace license. Mace will be available to purchase for $16 at the class. Participants must be 18 or have parents' written permission. For more information, call the YWCA Women's Center at 649-0834.

Single mothers' meet at YWCA

The Women's Center of the YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula has formed a new series of programs titled "The Balancing Act: A Discussion Group for Single Mothers."

The first meeting of this 10-week group will take place 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 21. The group will provide a safe, supportive environment for mothers to share the experiences and special concerns of single parenting.

Ismana Katz, director of the YWCA's Women's Center, stated "The group is designed to create an environment in which single mothers can come to terms with their needs, responsibilities, joys and challenges in single parenthood. The group dynamics will encourage women to share common concerns and interests through group discussions, guest speakers and related literature on topics of particular interest to the participants."

Group size is limited. The fee for the 10-week series is $50. Those women interested in obtaining more information or in reserving space in the single mother's group, "The Balancing Act," should call 649-0834, or stop by the YWCA offices at 801 Lighthouse Ave. in New Monterey to complete a registration form.

ROUNDUP

YWCA offers counseling to women

The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula will offer a counseling program geared to meet the needs of adolescent and adult women. This counseling program is designed to address problems, build self-esteem, improve relationships, help cope with stress or depression and deal with life changes and crisis. YWCA counselors are marriage, family, child counselor interns. Day and evening appointments are available. Sliding fee scale is based on clients income. Counseling sessions meet at the YWCA, 801 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey.

For details or to schedule an appointment, call 649-0834.

Reserve with toll-free line

There is a toll-free telephone number for making reservations at California State Parks through the MISTIX reservation system —800-444-7275. Reservations from out-of-state callers will still be made through the toll number of 1-619-452-1950. The toll-free number is not only for state park camping reservations, but also for Hearst Castle tours.

Art museum offers tours

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art offers docent-led tours for the public at 2 p.m. on the first and third Sundays of each month.

At present the 45-minute tours focus on selections from the museum's permanent collection. The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art is at 559 Pacific St. (across from Colton Hall) in Monterey. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday. the museum is closed on Monday.

Host families needed for students

Open Door Student Exchange needs host families for high school students from Europe, Central and South America for the 1991-92 school year. This program will also provide for American students to go abroad for one year. For details, call 484-9139.

Families needed to share homes

Monterey County needs caring people to share their homes with babies, sibling groups, minorities and teenagers — you decide!

Foster parent orientations are set 3 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 at the Childrens Services Office, 1352 Natividad Road, Salinas. For details, call 899-8015 or 755-4660.

'Law for the Citizen' announced

Monterey College of Law will be presenting a short course, "Law for the Citizen." The eight-class series offers a practical explanation of legal rights and obligations under California law. It is designed to take the mystique out of the legal system, and to improve public understanding of and appreciation for the legal system and the principles behind the law. Subjects to be covered include consumer protection, contracts, personal injury, real estate, dissolution of marriage, and several others.

"Law for the Citizen" will be offered 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Sept. 10 through Oct. 29. It will be taught at Santa Catalina School in Monterey. Registration fee before Sept. 1 is $75.

The Concours connection

IT'S MORE than a car show, historic auto races and club meets.

The annual Monterey Automotive Weekend has evolved into an international happening, filled with intrigue, romance, suspense, comedy and nostalgia. Someday there may even be a movie titled, "The Concours Connection." But until then we can only observe and imagine.

This year's cast of characters included:

Fashion designer Ralph Lauren as the "Rebel Without A Cause." He spent the weekend hanging out at the track and The Lodge wearing a pair of heavy-soled black motorcycle boots, faded Levis and a frayed denim jacket with a bleached-out American flag sewn on the back. Lauren obligingly signed autographs during the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance from the balcony of his suite in Room 112 at The Lodge while just up the way Eric Clapton stood, undetected. Clapton was in town to bid on a car later in the evening at Christie's Auction, a red Alpha Romeo. Down on the grounds neither the Turkish film maker in the flowing green overcoat or his sexy blonde assistant noticed the famous guitarist. It wasn't until Bob Feeman, editor of the Robb Report, bumped into Clapton in front of the red Alpha in the Christie's Auction tent and nudged a well-known writer that both of them confirmed it was indeed Clapton.

Earlier in the week Lauren's mechanic Ron Barnes had a close call reminiscent of a Hitchcock movie when he took the boss's $2.7 million 1958 Maserati 250 S out on the Laguna Seca track for a test drive. As he shot through curve two he realized the Maserati, part of the tribute to marque Juan Manuel Fangio, had developed a mechanical problem, causing the throttle to stick. Veteran race car driver Barnes fought successfully to bring the car under control. When he returned safely to the pits he discovered a crucial part was missing. (Or stolen!)

Cut back to the Concours, Club XIX, and the United Way "Sponsor's Luncheon." International racing legend Fangio, aristocratic in an ascot, was driving across the ramp in his Mercedes Benz W196, just as Eric Dahlquist from Los Angeles toasted newlyweds Don and Virginia Runkle of Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, who were seated at his table on the Club XIX terrace. Don is a vice president in Advanced Engineering at General Motors but all eyes were on Virginia, a stunning blonde who looked like she had stepped out of the days of S.F.B. Morse when movie stars frequented Pebble Beach regularly. Virginia's gold leather coat and blonde hair cascading under her white broad-brimmed hat with gold streamers was pure Hollywood.

At the same time Mrs. Alfred Castle, a 45-year resident of Pebble Beach, was entertaining her grandsons at Table Number One: Lyell Cash and the Cash twins, Jim and Bill. Mrs. Castle remarked that she still can't tell the twins apart, even now that they're grown men.

Just over the hedge from the "Sponsor's Luncheon," Christie's Brian Cole closed the bidding on the original poster art by Jack Juratovic at $14,000 as disbelief murmured through the crowd. Down the fairway, in the AFAS Art Tent, artist Dennis Fritz told how his Pebble Beach Concours poster submission from the year before had mysteriously disappeared.

Meanwhile intrepid locals Rob and Cynthia Talbott, Karen and Dennis LeVett, Doc and Char Etienne, Tom and Jennefee Bruce, Aran and Joyce Kinosian, Ray Ramsey, Billy Hinds, Pierre Bain, Elizabeth Bush and Craig McFarland (searching for his wife) were on their way to the Christie's Auction tent, lured by the promise of rare automotive art to be sold at ridiculously low prices.

Comedian Jay Leno appeared just as Gary Wales' 1947 Bentley with the frog skin interior rolled across the ramp. Leno, who was with a mysterious brunette, paused to clown for a moment for the sponsors and then disappeared into the crowd.

Jules "J" Heumann was teary-eyed as he and Lorin Tryon stood on the ramp to accept congratulations from Tom Oliver of Pebble Beach Company. Heumann and Tryon, co-chairmen of the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, were being honored for the 20 years they have devoted to making it a world-class event, following the lead of its originator, the gracious Gwenn Graham.

"Graham started the Concours in 1950 as an addition to the Pebble Beach Road Races and set the tone for elegance and quality that continues to make this the most prestigious show of its kind in the United States." — Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance program, 1974.

There you have it, a star-studded cast in a fast-forward glimpse of this year's Grand Automotive Weekend. Next year's sequel, "Madonna Does Pebble," promises to be a blockbuster. We know what drives her, but what does she drive?

FASHION STATEMENT

Ralph Lauren may have worn denim throughout the Concours weekend, but he hasn't lost his touch in the fashion department. His fall collections include some elegant little numbers. Cocktail suits and evening dresses in silk crepe, faille and duchesse satin with a

New this season is the "Lauren Lion" insignia, found on scarves, buckles, clasps and as a crest on Ralph's newest calfskin loafer. Lauren explains his fashion philosophy.

"I believe in clothes that last, that are not dated in a season. They should look as beautiful the year after they are bought." Yes, items like a $2,000 trenchcoat and a $450. silk turtleneck should last a few years.

TRAVEL TIP

Next time you're in San Francisco try Dottie's True Blue Cafe. Dottie's is located at 522 Jones and prides itself on being a real American coffee shop. The original Dottie, who ran a luncheonette in Queens, New York always said, "If you serve 'em crap, they won't come back," and owners Salvatore Bovoso and Stefen Reilly proudly say they serve great food at a good price seven days a week, no reservations required. HELPING HANDS

Noel Irwin-Hentschel of Carmel Valley, who says she was inspired by Mother Teresa to found the Noel Foundation, recently presented a check for $250,000 to the United Nations Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM). The funds were donated from the private sector to finance entrepreneurial projects run by women in developing countries including Pakistan, China, the Philippines and Jordan.

Irwin-Hentschel is making good her pledge to raise $1 million for UNIFEM to help women in developing countries help themselves and their families become self-sufficient. This year, financial assistance will go to develop a garment factory in Jiuzhai Village, one of the poorest regions of China, an agricultural root crop project in the Mt. Pinatubo earthquake area, an inland fishery in the Punjab district of Pakistan and a project with the Queen Alia Fund to help the women of Jordan help themselves in their struggle to rebuild their country's economy.

Future efforts will be concentrated in the western hemisphere, Africa and the Pacific Rim islands.

Locally, the Professional Women's Network of the Monterey Peninsula is currently accepting applications for its annual scholarship award. The $1,000 scholar-

Boronda 4-H scores in Gonzales

ON JULY 14 the Agbayani, Carter, Hussey, Paquin and the Peetz families went to the Swiss Rifle Club in Gonzales for the 46th annual Monterey County 4-H Achievement Day Barbecue.

The event had over 300 in attendance. The Boronda 4-H club was in charge of parking. Members report, "We had lots of fun deciding where the cars should go and receiving comments on what a good job we did. After we were all done with the parking we all got in line for a great tasting tri-tip meal with all the fixings."

After most of the people finished eating, they started the program. Each club had a chance to tell what they did last year. The awards given to the members of Boronda 4-H of Carmel Valley were bronze stars to Leticia Silva and Vallarie Carter. Aireen Agbayani, Geneson Agbayani and Christopher Paquin received a silver star and Kelly Paquin received a gold star.

Among the County Winners and Medalists, Kelly Paquin, a County Winner, received a gold for dairy goats; and Christopher Paquin, a medalist received a bronze in the same division.

Wanted and Needed: Any 4-H whites, boots or equipment to be donated to our current members. Call 394-6496 or 624-4559.

For information on joining your local 4-H call: 394-6496 or 624-4559.

Coast Guard accepts 1996 cadet applications

United States Coast Guard Academy
Nationwide Competition

THE UNITED States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, class of 1996.

Applications are being accepted for both men and women. Appointments as Coast Guard cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional nominations or geographical quotas. Applications must be submitted to the director of admissions prior to Dec. 15.

Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the December 1991 ACT and SAT test administrations. Appointments as cadet are tendered based on the candidate's high school record, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and have demonstrated proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

Candidates must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1992.

All candidates must be assured of high school graduation by June 30,1992. All candidates must have completed a minimum of three years of English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

Coast Guard cadets obtain undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses. The constantly updated Academy curriculum leads to a bachelor of science degree with a strong academic emphasis on engineering and science. The selected major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career. Graduates of the academy are commissioned as ensigns in the United States Coast Guard.

The young academy graduate can look forward to a career as a regular Coast Guard officer.

To obtain an application or further information write: Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, 15 Mohegan Ave., New London, CT 06320; or call (203) 444-8501.

Bus service available to Big Sur

Monterey-Salinas Transit announces its popular, seasonal Big Sur bus service has resumed. Line 22 operates five times daily from Monterey at the Monterey Transit Plaza to Big Sur and back. The last bus leaves Monterey at 4 p.m. for Big Sur and returning at 5:50 p.m. from Big Sur. Service to Big Sur will continue through the end of September, weather permitting. MST will provide bike racks on Line 22 this summer on a trial basis. According to MST General Manager Frank Lichtanski, "We have had numerous requests to accommodate bicycles aboard the bus. We are pleased to operate a pilot program this summer." Line 22 connects the hiking/biking trail along Cannery Row with such destinations as the aquarium, Fisherman's Wharf, downtown Monterey, Carmel and Big Sur.

CARMEL... AS I SEE IT

By Betty Barron

Memories

LOOKING BACKWARD backward in time is a most pleasant pastime even in this busy world of 1991.

The autobiography class I hold at Carmel Foundation views childhood from many aspects and from many locales ... from Adelaide, Australia to Butte, Montana ... from Chicago to Pasadena, from New York to Nebraska ... and from many, many places to Carmel, California.

In a way, Carmel is a melting pot of personalities; some of the most extraordinary men and women of this century have elected to live here close to the sea in the shelter of the pines.

Following are chapters from the autobiographies of Dorothy Herold and Frances Andrews. Dorothy gives us a glimpse of the flowering of orchards in the Santa Clara Valley and sojourns along the coastline from Half Moon Bay to Palo Colorado, before industry, hectic highways and other distractions changed our outlook and our lives. Frances portrays a young girl's first venture into a new world and how she learned to cope with new experiences and situations.

Dorothy Herold:

"Santa Clara Valley in the spring was a beautiful sight... prune trees in blossom and yellow mustard adding fragrance to the clean, clear air.

"It was a lovely time to be born. Life was unhurried, unsophisticated and serene. Transportation was by horse and buggy or wagon; few people owned cars. We lived on a prune ranch on the outskirts of Morgan Hill, a sleepy rural small town.

"Entertainment consisted of visiting in different homes, potluck dinners, playing cards and dances. We had a cow, chickens, a vegetable and flower garden. My father was kept busy operating the prune ranch, plowing, cultivating, spraying, pruning, as well as taking care of the livestock.

"Kerosene lamps and lanterns were used for light; a black wood-burning stove in the kitchen was used for cooking.

"Picnics were enjoyed at every opportunity...a favorite being the Glen Willis swimming hole near the present location of Anderson Dam. Children and babies were always brought along to these social events. In those days baby sitters had not been heard of.

"Later, we moved to a ranch just off Highway 101 near Coyote Creek. My Mother's family, the Rouses, lived near the highway; our grandparents had a prune ranch nearer Coyote, and an uncle raised prunes and apricots on a large ranch near Edenvale. We were all near Coyote Creek...and the coyotes!

"At night the coyotes would wail and yap with such fervor that I was very uneasy. I knew that they were sly and crafty and might even decide to come through a window and eat a little girl.

"Later I was taken to visit the small zoo in the little town of Madrone. There were five cages with a coyote in one, and a spider monkey in one. I looked fearfully at the poor scroungy, yellow-eyed coyote as he paced back and forth. He did not give me so much as a glance. His cage smelled dreadful...with only some rotting bones and a pan of water, and although the cage had a roof, the afternoon sun was mercilessly hot. These conditions would never have passed inspection now. In contrast, the spider monkey was a fascinating, happy little creature, and my sister and I enjoyed watching him and giving him peanuts through the wire.

"We had many picnics beside the Coyote Creek and swam in the pools that naturally formed, with sycamore trees and willows lining the banks.

"We often went to Watsonville to go clamming, to Martin's Beach near Half Moon Bay for smelt, and south of Carmel for abalone. Our favorite spot was Palo Colorado Ranch where the Palo Colorado Canyon road meets Highway 1 on the way to Big Sur. In the early 1920s the dirt road ran in front of the house since it had been a stage stop. Mr. Grimes, the owner, had given us permission to camp in the barnyard among the eucalyptus trees, between small barns and near a watering trough. His property extended to the beach.

"The minus tide was nearly always in the early morning, and we all went down to the beach and out on the reef. The men, armed with crowbars, gunny sacks, boots and warm clothing, gathered the abalone.

"After getting the lawful limit we all went home, the men to patiently pry the abalone loose from the shells, trim away the black edges, slice it and pound the steaks to tenderize. Then, dipped in egg, cracker crumbs and fried quickly it provided us with a feast! "Years later, in 1973, my husband and I moved to the Monterey Peninsula and I joined Nancy Johnson's watercolor painting class. One of our sites was the Palo Colorado Ranch, which I enjoyed painting. I treasure the painting, although it is not a masterpiece, because of the many happy memories it represents to me.

Frances Andrews :
from Autobiography

"My father felt himself to be a southern gentleman, even though he now lived in Nebraska. Therefore, he never shaved himself. This meant that he spent a half-hour every day in the local barber shop, a pit of male gossip, rumors, reports, and inside information, almost as bad as the beauty shop down the street. Here he heard first-hand about the good times the boys were having at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln; the beer busts, the frat parties, and stories and comments about girls. He was certainly not going to let me go there.

"He and my mother settled on Monticello Seminary in Godfrey, Illinois, a school for girls only. There were two dances a year to which the boys at a nearby prep school were invited but that was it. The girls wore uniforms, blue serge skirts with middy blouses, and were chaperoned everywhere.

"When Monticello and I first met, there was a great deal of culture shock on both sides. I had grown up in a midwestern small town whose main events were band concerts, picture shows, the county fair, and once a year, a Tom Thumb wedding put on by the Ladies' Aid. Monticello was a finishing school full of girls from wealthy homes who had had "advantages." There were a few others like me, diamonds in the rough from the middle west who had never been to dancing school, weren't used to more than more fork per meal, and said "I sure do" and dropped all of our g's.

"I went on the train to St. Louis, an overnight trip in a Pullman car, very exciting. I was met at the train station by Miss Morin, carrying a large sign, MONTICELLO, and accompanied by other new arrivals. We rode the school bus out to Alton, and then Monticello, which covered acres of grounds surrounded by a great stone fence with huge iron gates. Sitting back was a large gray stone building with smaller houses on the periphery. It was beautiful. I felt lost and strange and homesick but I also felt that I was very lucky. Sort of like Anne of Green Gables.

"Today, no girl in her right mind would willingly go to an institution like Monticello. These were girls 18 to 20 years old, who were isolated from the male sex, shopping, and all other kinds of normal activities, spending nine months each of two years going nothing but studying, playing field hockey and going to girls' birthday parties after school. There were a few girls there who knew how miserable it was, who were sophisticated and realized that they might as well be in a correctional facility. But I, and most of the girls, loved Monticello, made life-long friends there and wept for days after graduation.

"That first day at Monti, I found my new roommate crying in our room. Between sobs, she introduced herself. She was Ariel Criddle, from Beaver Dam, Wisconsin. She was making some attempt at unpacking her bags. I wasn't used to crying, at least in front of anyone else. I had no sisters and all of my girl friends had been brought up as I had to be stoics and not share our emotions with anyone. I didn't know what to do. Finally, as her sobs continued I said, 'Are you homesick, Ariel?'

"She shook her head, causing a shower of tears. 'It's Maynard; my boy friend, Maynard,' she said. 'I won't see him until Christmas. I can't stand it. We're in love.' She dug into her suitcase and pulled out a photo, obviously a graduation picture of a nice-looking boy who looked like all other nice-looking boys.

" 'Isn't he adorable? And he's so sweet. You'd love him. Everyone does. We've been engaged two weeks. We want to get married just as soon as I get out of this damn school.' And she started to flood over again.

"I got her to dry her eyes and go down to dinner. I didn't eat much. There was a lump in my throat and I couldn't swallow. After dinner, we walked around the building together, looking at the lounge, the library, and other girls, many of whom were having happy reunions with girls who had been there the year before. We finally went to our room and went to bed, feeling forlorn. I slept the night away but in the morning, Ariel's eyes told a tale of more tears and little sleep. Classes started and for the next few days, we were busy, finding classrooms, getting books, and making new friends.

"One afternoon toward the end of the first week, one of the teachers told me that Miss Congdon wanted to see me. Miss Congdon was the principal of the school, a gray-haired woman in her sixties, of ample proportions and a royal manner, with eyes that could look at an assemblage of 200 girls in chapel and see every note-passer, every giggler, every mischief-maker, and recall them later by name and deed. But this was the first week of school and I was too green to be frightened or nervous.

"At first she asked me how I was adjusting to my new surroundings. Then she got down to business.

'My dear,' she said in her rich, cultured voice, 'I want to ask you some questions about your roommate, Ariel. Have you seen her today?'

'No, ma'am, not since this morning.'

'What was her mood? Did she tell you what she was going to do today?'

'No, ma'am. I just thought that she was going to her classes. She has been crying a lot. She misses her boy friend. They are engaged.'

'Did you meet him?'

WELCOME ADDITIONS

The following peninsula familes have been blessed with new members: David & Christina Bean gave birth to a boy, Alex J., on July 24; Noel & Kristine Young gave birth to a boy, Austin Wesley; and Libby and Greg McMenamin gave birth to a girl, Katharine Jo.

MIKE SHANNON

CLINT EASTWOOD MUSIC SCHOLARSHIPS

Mike Shannon, Carmel High School class of '91, has been awarded the first Clint Eastwood Music Scholarship, established this year by the CHS Music Boosters via a grant from Eastwood.

Shannon, son of Mike and Madeline Shannon of Big Sur, has studied music for nine years and participated as a percussionist in the CHS jazz band, concert wind ensemble and orchestra. He also received the John Phillips Sousa Award given to the outstanding senior musician and was selected as a member of the Monterey Jazz Festival's California High School All-Star Band for two consecutive years.

On Aug. 6, during Lionel Hampton's visit to the peninsula, Shannon was one of several students asked to play for the famed vibraphonist; the "Jazz Great" then joined the students performing "A Train."

Shannon will use his scholarship as a music major at the University of Northern Colorado.

A FEAST WORTH PLANNING FOR

MARY MULLEN

AQUARIUM NAMES MARY MULLEN MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM SUPERVISOR

Mary C. Mullen, who has spent 17 years in nonprofit program administration and public relations, has been named membership program supervisor at the Monterey Bay Aquarium. A graduate of San Francisco State University, she served as marketing director for the Planned Parenthood Association of Monterey County before coming to the aquarium. She is a Monterey resident. In her new position, she will plan and coordinate activities for nearly 80,000 aquarium members of the nonprofit aquarium, including monthly members' nights, family educational programs and special events.

LEGAL SERVICES FOR SENIORS RECEIVES FOUNDATION GRANTS

Legal Services for Senior recently received two grants from local foundations for the expansion of services.

The Barnett Segal Trust has made a grant of $24,200 for work in the area of consumer protection. The funds will be used to provide legal assistance to seniors who are victims of consumer fraud. The agency will also be sending consumer alerts to seniors and sponsoring workshops on assertiveness skills for seniors. The workshops will be aimed at preventing seniors from becoming victims of sales scams in the future.

Expansion of services to seniors in South Monterey County is the focus of a project funded by the Harden Foundation. The grant was made in two parts: $25,825 for a bilingual paralegal to work in South County, and; $13,000 in the form of a challenge grant for administration and public relations for the new South County services.

Legal Services for Seniors will be launching a fund drive this fall in South County to raise the $13,000 in matching funds to claim the grant from The Harden Foundation.

Legal Services for Seniors, a private nonprofit organization founded in 1985, provided legal education, advocacy and representation to over 3,200 low income Seniors in Monterey County during the past year.

BARBARA SHIPNUCK ELECTED TO NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF COUNTIES BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Monterey County Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck was elected to the board of directors of the National Association of Counties (NACo) at its annual meeting July 12-16, in Salt Lake County, Utah. NACo represents more than two thirds of the nation's 3,110 counties. It has founded in 1935 and has its headquarters in Washington, D.C.

For the past two years Supervisor Shipnuck has chaired NACo's Health Steering Committee and was 1990-91 president of WON (Women Officials in NACo). She has taken a leading role in the organization's lobbying efforts in regard to tax exempt bonds and the charity care obligation of not-for-profit hospitals.

The NACo Board of Directors is the policy-setting body of the organization. It acts on recommendations from 12 steering committees, each of which is responsible for a broad issue area. Adopted policy forms the The American County Platform which is used in the organization's lobbying efforts in Congress and with administrative agencies. In addition, the organization has a strong research and education component which seeks to improve the efficiency and quality of service provided by the nation's counties.

"I am delighted to have this opportunity," said Supervisor Shipnuck. "America's counties are being asked to take on more responsibility as programs are shifted from federal and state levels. We need to work hard to maintain a good funding base and to develop an appropriate definition of our new role."

CARMEL SKI CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At its recent annual meeting, the Carmel Ski Club elected officers for the 1991-92 season. President-Elect Roger Born of Monterey, took the gavel from last years president, Hans Rogge of Pacific Grove. Other officers elected were Hans Rogge, vice-president; Kathy Kraft, secretary; Sharon Raney, treasurer; and board members, Doug Sprague, Rudy Beneke, Chuck Storm, Dee Golding and Don Wald. Kathy Ford will publish Sno-Notes, the club's monthly newsletter. The Carmel Ski Club owns a lodge near Truckee, California which is available year-round for members and their guests. Monthly events are planned both on the peninsula and at the Lodge.

OBITUARIES

James Fraser Cocks, Jr.

Longtime Carmel resident James Fraser Cocks, Jr. died at Hospice of the Central Coast on Aug. 17. He was 85.

A native of Louisville, Ky., Cocks was born in 1906. He received his education at Georgia Tech University and the University of Toronto.

A retired corporate executive and local accountant, Cocks began his career with General Motors in Detroit, Mich. He then became comptroller with Aerovox Corp. in New Bedford, Mass, and later assumed a similar position with L.A. Young Spring & Wine Corp. in Detroit.

In 1958 he became general manager of Gonset Manufacturing Co. in Los Angeles.

He moved to Carmel in 1961 and established an accounting firm before merging the firm with local accounting firm.

After his retirement, Cocks worked for 15 years with historic archives in the Monterey Public Library.

He is survived by a wife, Lillias Campbell Cocks of Carmel; two sons, James Fraser Cocks III of Eugene, Ore. and Geoffrey Campbell Cocks of Albion, Mich.; a sister, Mary Clower of Woodstock, Va.; and three granddaughters.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Monterey Public Library, Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross or Hospice of the Central Coast.

William Howard Church

William Howard Church, known as Howard, a Pebble Beach resident and former senior emeritus professor of management at the Naval Postgraduate School, died June 18 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula at the age of 80.

Born June 13, 1911, in Boise, Idaho, Mr. Church moved to California at the age of 12.

Mr. Church received his undergraduate education from Whittier College, and earned his master's degree and teaching credential in public administration from the University of Southern California. He did doctoral work at both UCLA and USC, and then received a full-time fellowship in government studies from USC.

In the meantime, he served in the Navy during World War II and in the Naval Reserve for 20 years, earning the rank of captain.

After the war he became director, partner, and consultant of Administrative Management Services, as well as the first city manager for the city of Whittier for three years.

Other noteworthy positions he held include principal analyst for many firms, including the California Taxpayers Association, consultant on the presidential commission for Intergovernmental Relations, and research advisor for the Task Force on National Health Policies in Washington, D.C.

Since moving to the Monterey Peninsula in 1956, he joined the Naval Postgraduate School, and served as civilian founder, chairman, and senior emeritus professor of management studies.

Locally he was founding member of the Monterey Peninsula Federal Credit Union, as well as other local management organizations.

In addition, he served as president of the Del Monte Property Owners Association and was on the board of directors of the Pebble Beach Sanitary District, and served an 18-month term on the Monterey County Grand Jury.

He was a member of the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel, the Sunshine Rotary of Monterey, and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Survivors include his wife, Winfred; a son, Addison, of Orlando, Fla.; and one grandson.

Services were held at the Church of the Wayfarer and the Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the donor's favorite charity.

Helen Mains Craig

Eighty-five year old Pebble Beach resident Helen Mains Craig died of a heart condition at Community Hospital on June 15.

Born on Nov. 1, 1905 in Cardonland, Scotland, Mrs. Craig had lived in Pebble Beach for 14 years. Before that she lived in Hillsborough, where she was an active member of the community, holding the positions president of both the San Mateo Symphony Guild and San Carlos Junior Matrons.

A long-time theater lover, Mrs. Craig was a member of the Bedini Players of San Francisco, Clay Piper Theater Group of the Mother Lode in San Mateo County, and was active in the Hillbarn League, which supported the Hillbarn Theater.

She was also active in the PTA.

After moving to the Monterey Peninsula, Mrs. Craig was involved in a local symphony guild, The Jesters and the Scottish Society of the Monterey Peninsula. She was a member of the Beach and Tennis Club at Pebble Beach.

She leaves behind her husband Gordon; son Gordon C.A. Craig of Oakland; daughter Joan Riley Muraira of Cupertino; two grandsons; and five great-grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary is responsible for cremation and scattering of her ashes at sea.

Family members advise memorial contributions be sent to the Heart Fund at Community Hospital or to the donor's favorite charity.

Peter Navarette

Peter Navarette of Pacific Grove died Saturday, June 15 of complications of diabetes at Natividad Medical Center. He was 37.

Born in Midland, Texas, on Aug. 1, 1953, Mr. Navarette moved to the peninsula 21 years ago and graduated from Pacific Grove High School. After that he served in the Army from 1974 to1976 and attendend Monterey Peninsula College.

Mr. Navarette was involved in several local theatre productions, both on and off stage.

He directed and acted in Sam Sheppard's rock musical-drama Tooth of Crime in 1984. The play was the only one to be held at The Club in Monterey.

The following year he directed Harold Pinter's Hothouse at MPC's theater.

He is survived by his mother, Elisa Larez of P.G., and brothers Micheal of San Francisco and Marco of P.G.

Services were held last month at Lover's Point; arrangements were made by Paul Mortuary.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Natividad Medical Center's intensive care unit.

Greta Wiesiolowski

Greta Wiesiolowski of Pacific Grove died of respiratory arrest on June 9 at Community Hosipital of the Monterey Peninsula.

The 91 year-old homemaker hade lived in Pacific Grove since 1961.

She was born in Bavaria, Germany on May 9, 1990

She is survived by a son, Udo V. Oven, resident of Germany and Spain.

Dates for memorial services are not known. Cremation arrangements will be performed by Paul Mortuary.

The family suggests donors make memorial contributions to their favorite charity.

Vincent G. Dreesman

Vincent G. Dreesman, 82, of Moss Beach, died at Friday, June 14 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Mr. Dreesman was a former Carmel resident who founded Plas-Tal Manufacturing Co., a steel fabricating business.

He was born in St. Jospeph, Mo., on Nov. 16, 1908. Since 1927 he has resided in California, including 48 years in Southern Califonia.

Hospice debuts new Wellness Program

Hospice of the Central Coast has started an educational and therapeutic Wellness Program which is designed to teach people who are living with a life-threatening illness how to promote their health and well-being.

Hospice's new Wellness Program will continue and expand on services formerly offered by the Richard D. Collins Cancer Wellness Center. A decision was made by that organization's board of directors to disband and turn its assets over to Hospice so that a broader segment of the community could be served.

"We felt that Hospice had the name recognition and resources to get information out to the public and offer them a more comprehensive set of services," says Daniel Mayers, formerly president of the Richard D. Collins Cancer Wellness Center and chairman of their board of directors.

"We are very happy that Hospice sees the need for a wellness program and is willing to add it to the portfolio of services which they already provide," Mayers adds.

Held in a group or individualized setting, the eight-week Wellness Program explores such topics as feelings, beliefs, attitudes, family dynamics, good nutrition, stress reduction and what it means to have a life-threatening illness.

The Wellness Program adds to the full range of educational, health care and support services Hospice provides to those facing a life-threatening illness.

Judith Herrmann, president of Hospice, says, "Hospice is not just for the terminally ill. We serve people at every stage of their illness, from the day of diagnosis.

"Our mission is to help patients and families maintain a high quality of life by having information and resources they need to help them better confront the illness."

Applications for the Wellness Program classes, which begin Sept. 17, are now being accepted. A per-family fee covers the program's twice-weekly and monthly follow-up sessions. Most insurance policies will cover the fee and some scholarship funds raised in the community are available on a sliding scale basis. Financing options can also be arranged.

Classes will be held at 1015 Cass Street in Monterey, near Hospice's Resource Center. For information, call 372-5485.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Of the best things older people can do to maintain their health is to stay physically active, says the U.S. Public Health Service. "Often physiological decline associated with aging may actually be the result of inactivity," the review points out. More than 40 percent of people over 65 report no leisure time physical activity, such as walking or gardening. Among benefits of physical activity cited in the review are the likelihood of increased longetivity and functional independence in later years. It's wise to consult a doctor before increasing physical activity.

Edna Lewis learned to cook in her family's kitchen in Unionville, Virginia. Now she applies her skills in the historic Gage and Tollner restaurant in Brooklyn, New York. She starts work around 8 a.m. and "I have to force her to leave around 8 p.m.," says a manager. But she did take a night off recently when other cooks prepared some of her specialties, like she-crab soup and quail with spoon bread. The occasion: her 75th birthday. "I'm going to start taking it easier," she said. But she will still cook and "I have a cookbook to write."

LOVELY SUBJECT — It's easy to see that five-year-old Julie Nichols enjoyed posing for her photographer Grandpa. He's Carmel's Les the Barber (Les Fulgham, who's branching out into professional lens work these days). Julie lives in Southern California when she's not visiting Les. He got private tutoring from the late Ansel Adams.

LES FULGHAM doesn't mind being photographed either. He says the Ansel Adams emphasis upon composition steered this popular Carmel barber in the right direction. (Lynn Lumbard photo.)

Les the Barber trusts lens tips from Ansel

By JOHN DETRO

NOW, HERE'S a news flash for hectic times. Hope thrives. Because good things still happen to good people.

ARTS & LEISURE

The witty, gentle and perceptive man named Les Fulgham opened his Carmel establishment nearly 20 years ago. "On April Fool's Day — an excellent occasion," says Les the Barber.

The shop at Sixth and Dolores (upstairs) holds scores of mementos from happy customers plus the names-packed appointment book. Les the Barber's business card features a customized drawing by famed cartoonist Hank Ketcham.

Beyond all that, Dame Fortune smiled upon Les with extraordinary warmth.

When he became interested in photography some years back, a rather qualified counselor appeared — the late Ansel Adams.

As Fulgham tells it: "The last three years of his life (Ansel died in April 1984), he'd come see me when he had public things on tap. I'd trim his beard. There were several occasions — and each time I had 45 minutes in which I'd pick his brain. Ansel was extremely kind. The lessons he offered must be called priceless."

Basically, Les had one central question — How might he become a better lensman? "This master emphasized composition. He gave me the frame from a 35-millimeter slide, and suggested I carry it with me, and look through it dozens and dozens of times each day, and strengthen my sense of balance and contrast. I did as he said."

The next question fielded by Ansel Adams — How would Les know when he'd come up with the right composition? "He said that I would come to feel it — and he was absolutely correct."

Les smiled at the shape of some memory.

And then: "Actually, his presence was what made my simple curiosity turn serious. I asked Ansel what sort of camera I should get. He said start with an inexpensive one — 'the better one will find you when you're ready.' I practiced and practiced. Last year I went to Amsterdam ... and someone stole my old camera. That was May. In September, local photographer John Livingstone Jr. came up with a used Nikon, and I jumped on it. Again, Ansel's opinion proved out."

From there, Les began shooting portraits of customers. And he went to all kinds of artists with a more advanced question — What do you see when you look?

"Then I noticed something when I watched someone's eyes. Spirit was coming through, and I started trying to bring it out on film. The spirit in the eye made me smile, I found. Incredible! The spirit moves the flesh."

Today, 62-year-old Les the Barber qualifies as Les the Professional Photographer too. "I'm just starting," he says with a delighted grin. "Some leads on commercial jobs have come through shop regulars. I really enjoy looking at a thing and choosing the best viewpoint to present it. And any time I can bring a point of joy to someone through photography, it's a wonderful feeling."

He nodded with great sincerity. "I'll always think of Ansel Adams. What a great man — he really knew who he was. For me, Ansel served as inspiration and practical trainer. Whatever happens in the photography field, he has my constant gratitude."

Multi-Cultural Arts Grants available

The Monterey County Cultural Council announces the availability of monies through a special category: Multi-Cultural Arts Programs.

Grants will be awarded for a specific arts program or series of arts programs rooted in the expressions of a single culture or for programs that involve the ethnic-based expressions of many cultures.

Proposals are encouraged from emerging arts groups and community organizations. All arts programs need the formal sponsorship of a nonprofit organization. In some instances, arts groups who do not possess formal nonprofit status may apply through a sponsoring nonprofit organization.

Projects must primarily serve Monterey County residents and take place during 1992. No awards will be made to individuals.

Sept. 20, 1991 is the deadline for completed applications.

Further information, applications, and assistance in developing proposals may be obtained by writing to the Monterey County Cultural Council, P.O. Box 246, Salinas, CA 93902 or by calling 424-3043.

JUST AS if she were dancing, Julie Nichols provides another delicate image for Grandpa Les Fulgham's camera. (See story about his artistic development.)

Cultural council shares regranting guidelines

THE MONTEREY County Cultural Council's Regranting Program guidelines and application forms are now available. New applicants can receive guidelines by sending a self-addressed, business-size or larger envelope to: Regranting Program, MCCC, P.O. Box 246, Salinas, CA 93902. Applications have been mailed to last year's applicants. The deadline for application receipt is Sept. 20.

This is the seventh cycle of the regranting programs, which distributes monies set aside for culture by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

All nonprofit tax-exempt organization located in Monterey County that provide literary, visual, media, or performing arts programming are eligible after one year of operation. Programming must be directed to Monterey County audiences, and priority will be given to organizations that provide programs for underserved residents—geographically isolated, minorites, senior citizens, youth, and the incarcerated. Multicultural content of programs is encouraged.

Two categories of grants are available: Arts Institutions/Organizations Grants and Arts Programs/Multicultural Arts Programs Grants.

Arts Programs/Multicultural Arts Programs Grants are intended to support the program of emerging arts groups and also to support the arts programs of community organizations. Additionally, Multicultural Arts Programs Grants will be awarded for programs rooted in the ethnic expressions of Native American, Hispanic, Pacific Islander, and African cultures.

In some cases, arts groups who do not possess nonprofit standing may apply through a sponsoring nonprofit organization.

Arts Institutions/Organizations Grants are intended to support the general program of established arts resources.

In both categories, applicants must demonstrate equivalent support from other sources.

Application cannot be made in both funding categories by the same organization in the same year.

The Monterey County Cultural Council will hold workshops to assist applicants with the preparation of the grants. The staff will also be available by telephone or by appointment.

Grant applications are judged by a rotating panel of community members who represent broad experience in all artistic disciplines. The Grants Review Panel assembles yearly to evaluate proposals using the following criteria: artistic excellence, quality and community service of the institution applying; administrative and artistic qualifications of personnel; outreach to underserved audiences; multicultural content of programs; evidence of community support; budget information; and organization's financial stability.

For further information, call the Monterey County Cultural Council at 424-3043.

Ornamental horticulture offered this autumn at MPC

Nine ornamental horticulture courses, including a new course on horticulture business practices, will be offered at Monterey Peninsula College during the fall semester which begins Monday, Aug. 26.

Among class offerings, the Ornamental Horticulture Department at MPC will offer a three-unit Insect Pest Management class, which provides 40 hours of continuing education for licensed commercial pesticide applicators. The class, meeting from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, provides techniques for safe and proper pesticide application as well as information on the control of pests and insects that affect plants.

The new Horticultural Business Practices class on Thursday evenings will provide practical guidelines for starting a horticulture business, advertising, employee and customer relations, record keeping, laws and regulations, estimating, sales and service.

Other course offerings this fall and class times are: Introduction to Ornamental Horticulture I, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, Wednesday or Thursday evenings; Introduction to Ornamental Horticulture II, Basic Landscape Design, and Successful Gardening Techniques I on Monday evenings; Turfgrass Management on Tuesday evenings; Floral Design on Wednesday mornings; Irrigation and Water Economy, Plant Identification, and Shrubs, Vines, Ground Covers on Wednesday evenings.

For information about these courses, call Cathy Haas at 646-4123.

For registration information call the MPC Admissions and Records Office at 646-4002.

Medvedev shares results of his artistic journey

IGOR MEDVEDEV has recently returned from an "artistic" journey to Turkey. His travels took him from Istanbul to Kusadasi. Upon his return to the United States, he created authentic paintings depicting life as it might have been hundreds of years ago and also as it is today. Little towns of immaculate sun-drenched streets, beautiful courtyards with passages through the walls, just waiting to be discovered by a casual spectator.

"Ambient Light," a solo exhibition of recent paintings by Medvedev, is scheduled to open on Saturday, Aug. 24 at the Dyansen Gallery of Carmel. The gallery, located on Cottage Row, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, is hosting a reception for the artist on Aug. 24 from 5 to 9 p.m. The exhibition of approximately 25 original works will be featured through Sept. 13.

Medvedev's paintings offer a world of great beauty, balance and order. The classically-trained artist, born in the U.S.S.R., is acclaimed for his mastery of the elements of composition. Strong, clean forms and a dramatic use of light and shadow are the hallmarks of his warm, expressive style.

In an interview with Dr. Jean Andigier, University of San Francisco, Medvedev noted, "I am fascinated with an interplay of various axes, using them to create stress and balance in the composition. . . . Light is what makes a painting sing and I purposely choose . . . a specific time of day when the shadows are long and the light is golden."

The Dyansen Gallery of Carmel, under the aegis of the Dyansen Corporation, is one of 16 retail locations in the U.S. and Japan. The Corporation , a publicly held fine art marketer, is currently celebrating its 11th year in business.

Free bus service offered to County Fair

Monterey-Salinas Transit (MST), in conjunction with the Monterey County Fair, will again provide free bus service to and from the Fair through Aug. 25. Similar to past years, MST riders will receive $1 off the Fair admission price at the ticket window. To avoid any congestion problems with Fair parking, free parking during the Fair will be available at Monterey Peninsula College (MPC).

Persons going to the Fair have several options on MST routes. At MPC, you can board, at no charge, any outbound bus going directly to the Fair. If you're in downtown Monterey, you can board the Free Shuttle leaving from the Monterey Transit Plaza going to the Fair.

Going home, persons leaving the Fair can get on a bus and ride free anywhere within MST's service area.

Frequent free service will be provided in both directions between MPC bus stops and the Fair until 11:15 p.m. each night. Free service between downtown Monterey (Transit Plaza) and the Fair will run every 30 minutes from 10:27 a.m. to 11:15 p.m. on weekdays and from 9:27 a.m. to 11:15 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Several MST routes have also been slightly changed to serve the Fairgrounds. They are: Lines 6 — Kimball Avenue, 8 — Del Rey Oaks, 9 — Fremont-Hilby, 12 — Marina, and 21 — Salinas/Monterey via Highway 68. In addition, Lines 7 — Marina and 30 — Salinas/Monterey via Marina will be slightly changed to reach the Fair on evenings and Sundays.

For more information about special bus service to the Fair, call MST at 899-2555 or 424-7695.

Activist Richard Criley recalls Carmel of the 1930s

RICHARD CRILEY, writer, and civil liberties activist, will talk about Carmel in 1934, and his days at Sunset School, on Tuesday, Aug. 27, at the Harrison Memorial Library's Local History Department.

Criley's family moved to Carmel Highlands in 1916. He attended Sunset School, graduated from Monterey High, and continued his education at Stanford and Berkeley. The year 1934 marked a pivotal point in Criley's lifelong commitment to social activism. He served in a club organized by Lincoln Steffens and Ella Winter that provided a forum for striking longshoremen and other controversial speakers. The town became embroiled in controversy over the club's meetings. That same year, Criley helped organize a free-speech strike at University of California at Berkeley.

Later Criley worked as a labor organizer in Santa Clara and San Francisco. He served in Europe during World War II, then spent 30 years in Chicago involved in grassroots political organizations. Returning to the peninsula in the late 1970s, he continued work in defense of civil liberties. He has served multiple terms on the Northern California ACLU board and as executive director of the ACLU Monterey Chapter. Criley recently received the Free Expression Award for his book, "The FBI v. The First Amendment," published in 1990.

This is the third in a series of local history programs held at the library's Park Branch building, Sixth and Mission, Carmel. It will be from 2 to 3 p.m., and is free and open to the public. For more information, call 624-1615.

Tips for shaving medical bills

AT SOME TIME during your life, you will probably face major medical expenses for yourself or for someone in your family. Even a short illness can bring with it dozens of bills and statements from doctors, hospitals and insurance companies.

Author Judith Tweedie says dealing with the paperwork of serious illness can be overwhelming, but a little preparation and careful attention to detail will make the task easier. To help you successfully manage medical bills, she gives seven pointers in the Aug. 1991 issue of The Ensign, a publication of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints.

1. Read your medical insurance policies. Be sure you understand them. Be aware of all restrictions. Know what you will have to pay; approximately one-fourth of all medical bills are paid out-of-pocket by the patient.

If the policies contain anything you don't understand, ask your insurance agent or the company's representative to explain. If you live in the U.S. and use Medicare, you can find that information number in the community services section of your local telephone directory.

2. Keep a diary of all medical care. If you can't do it yourself, ask your spouse, parent, adult child, or a friend to do it for you. Include all key events: hospital admission and release dates; intensive care dates; physical, occupational, respiratory, and other types of therapy. Record treatment changes as they occur. Note when IVs and special medications start and stop. Even note when regular meals start again.

Get the name of every doctor who provides services; this includes surgeons, anesthesiologists, mental health professionals, and specialist who are called in as consultants. Record every visit they make. Each of these people will send you a separate bill.

3. Request billing statements that itemize each service or supply you receive. Most hospitals categorize each service and item with a specified code number and fee. An explanation of the code should be printed somewhere on the bill. Specific costs are usually in the far right column of the bill and total accumulated costs in the bottom right corner. The amount your insurance has paid will be next to the total cost, and the final figure is usually the amount of money you still owe.

4. Scrutinize every bill. This is where a diary proves its worth. Compare it with the hospital statements and doctor bills. Verify that you received every service or item on the bill, that the cost did not change during treatment and that the price is reasonable.

5. Contact the billing offices of all health care providers. You can do this even before you start to receive bills. Find out who will be handling your account and stay in touch with that person. He or she can show you how to read statements, fill out forms, and take care of insurance.

6. Keep a record of each bill you receive and every payment you and your insurance company make, along with the date of action. Make a record form that works for you. For example, you might turn a sheet of graph paper on its side. Across the top, make eight columns that read: Statement Number, Name, Date Received, Date First Insurance/We Paid, Amount, Date Second Insurance Paid, Amount, Date Total Bill Paid.

Such a form lets you see the status of each bill at a glance.

After you have recorded this information, make a copy of every bill and payment receipt. File these copies in a separate place from the originals and update them when you update the originals.

7. Don't be afraid to ask questions. If you have questions, wish to challenge excessive charges, or need help understanding the hospital bill, contact the hospital's patient representative. His or her job is to help you.

Following these steps will give you the tools to manage major medical bills. But even better, it can give you peace of mind during a period of worry and stress.

ON STAGE

The Boy Friend

The Boy Friend, the Sandy Wilson flapper-era musical which introduced Julie Andrews to Broadway, opens Thursday, Aug. 22 in the Main Stage Theatre at Monterey Peninsula College and continues through Sept. 8.

Following the 8 p.m. opening night performance, the production will be presented Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m.

Set in 1926 on the French Riviera, The Boy Friend focuses on the story of Polly, an English heiress and student at Mme. Dubonnet's finishing school, who meets and falls in love with Tony. Though of noble lineage, Tony is posing as a delivery boy.

Jennifer Miller portrays Polly in the MPC production, and Stuart Bratholt is Tony. Blase Mills as Maisie and Terry Barto as Bobby Van Heusen are also featured.

Tickets are $12 general admission; $9 for students/military/senior citizens and $6 for children 12 and younger.

Reservations may be made by calling the MCTA box office at 375-6398, or the MPC box office at 646-4213, between 4 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.

Peter Pan

The Frohman Academy's production of the classic J.M. Barrie story, Peter Pan, opens Friday, Aug. 23 in the Sister Carlotta Performing Arts Center at Santa Catalina School in Monterey.

Performances continue at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 24, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25.

This magical fantasy includes such songs as "Neverland," "I Gotta Crow" and "I'm Flying."

Peter Pan will be played by Laura Akard. The production is directed by John Pasqualetti. . .

The Glass Menagerie

Cherry Hall in Carmel provides the setting for the Forest Theater Guild staging of The Glass Menagerie by Tennessee Williams.

Ann Mattingly portrays Amanda, an aging Southern Belle living in the past and trying to survive in a reality she doesn't understand. She is desperate to see her daughter happily married and her son successful in business, and discouraged that neither of her children is living up to her expectations.

Sandy Williams directs the production, which plays Thursdays through Sundays until Sept. 15.

The cast includes Christopher Heimer, Ivy Cates and Kent Carlson.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 7 p.m. on Sundays. Cherry Hall is located at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel. Tickets are $10 general and $8 for students, senior citizens and the military. For reservations or other information, call 648-5722.

Actors in Action

Actors-in-Action's new production of Othello continues in the Gatanaga Theater at the York School. Actors-in-Action is committed to "learning by doing good theater and then contributing the donations at the door to our community," according to founder/director Rosamond Goodrich.

Proceeds from each performance of Shakepeare's tragedy will go to a different local or world service agency, ranging from Amnesty International to the Community Hospital Recovery Center.

Othello can be seen at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Aug. 15-16. For details, call 659-1375.

Becket

Becket, "this drama of friendship between two men, between the king and his friend, his companion in pleasure and in work, this friend whom he could not cease to love though he became his worst enemy the night he was named Archbishop of Canterbury," continues through Sept. 1 at the Forest Theater.

Directed by Jim Webber, Becket is his first production for the Forest Theater Guild.

Performances take place 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Tickets are available the evening of the performance, with the box office opening at 7 p.m.

Seating is first come, first served. Tickets cost $10 on Friday and Saturday and $5 on Thursday and Sunday. Tickets are $5 for all performances for seniors, students and military.

The theater is situated at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. All are advised to dress warmly and bring a blanket. Refreshments are available throughout the evening though picnic baskets are welcome.

For details, call 626-1681.

Guys and Dolls

DAMON RUNYON'S Guys and Dolls, currently playing at The Wharf Theater, tells the musical story of Times Square riffraff. From left, Nicole L. Hostetler, Douglas Phillips and Camille Beisher take part in the lively musical comedy. Performances are set at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays through Sept. 8. The theater is located on Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey.

Laughing Wild

The most recent play by Christopher Durang, Laughing Wild, concludes its run at the Monterey Playhouse operated by GroveMont. In Laughing Wild, two comic monlogues evolve into a man's and a woman's shared comic nightmare of modern life. Eventually they meet, at the Harmonic Convergence in Central Park.

The Monterey Playhouse is at 425 Washington St. in downtown Monterey.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Aug. 15-17. For more information or reservations, call 649-6852.

The Sea Gull

Guest artist Frank Condon will direct Jean-Claude Van Itallie's 1973 translation of Chekhov's The Sea Gull for The Western Stage. The play is about the theater and its people, but it could also be a play about modern day Hollywood, despite its origins in 19th century Russia.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 22. Setting is the Studio Theater of the Hartnell College Performing Arts Center, 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

ART NOTES

By Sam Colburn

A tricky field

ART AS an investment is a tricky field. I have known of sales amounting to $20- or $80,000 for a single piece which in five or ten years would be worth maybe $500. In these cases the buyer has not only a profound innocence of eye, but is also unaware of the open market. The opposite can also be true. I know that a John Marin watercolor appeared in a local auction house, and went for an amount far below the true market value.

There are some painters who lived here whose imagery was original, and whose works are like blue chip stocks. There are others whose seeing was not that interesting, but whose paintings are also available only at high prices. This seems to be time-related. Currently, work done through the '30s and into the '40s is selling for surprising amounts.

AT THE PRESENT time the Carmel Art Association is exhibiting the paintings, drawings and etchings of five women who were early members. I knew both Mary De Neale Morgan and Laura Maxwell. The first is distinguished by soft, charming oils, such as "Path to the River," and "By the River." Laura Maxwell's "Tortilla Flats" is a lively and provocative watercolor which makes me wonder about the true location of that fabled spot. My friend Russell Williams thinks it was at the end of Madison Avenue in Monterey. This is the site of his house and he has dug up empty jugs of wine on the property. Another possible location was in Carmel east of Carpenter between First and Second avenues. There is also the Huckleberry Hill theory. Laura Maxwell's painting makes me think that she made up the title. There is no place around here that resembles what she has depicted.

John Steinbeck, his wife Carol, Bruce and Jean Aris, and Ed Ricketts used to drink red wine at Ed's lab. If I had asked him then, there would be no puzzle. According to two old residents Laura's paintings entitled "Pacific Grove" is a scene in Monterey. "Untitled" (San Francisco Bay) is a very compact painting in which the buildings form a mass that cuts across a garden in front and the bay behind.

The work of Jeanette Maxfield Lewis is very strong, especially in black and white. "Fishermen" is an etching which shows the influence of Armin Hansen. "Quimper" is a Conte crayon drawing, and "Washer Women" is an etching.

"Antibes," an abstract by Eunice Cashion MacLennan, is well composed. The media looks like a combination of gouache and pencil. Her "Work Rhythms" relies on strong diagonals created by men hauling nets. "Homes and Gardens of Italian Fisherman" by Rowena Meeks Abdy is a combination of drawing and watercolor in which the space is well used. It makes me think of the times when the purse seiners came in with their loads of sardines. Whistles would blow, and the women would go go the canneries to put up the day's catch. They came out of the little houses adjacent to the Row.

The Carmel Art Association is to be complimented for putting this show together. It will be on view through the first Wednesday in September.

THE PACIFIC GROVE Art Center continues to offer a great spread of contemporary art with the present shows: Terry Dean Adkinson in the David Henry Gill Gallery, Renee Eaton in the Elmarie Dyke Gallery, and Lyndi Angermeier in the hallways.

Terry does interesting things with acrylic paint on sheets of clear acrylic. There are two levels. In two of these works the gallery walls are the background, and the dark shadows give depth. In the other pieces, the background is dark blue. The brush strokes are solid on the rear plane, and fringed on the front one. The big figures on canvas have a diagonal slant, and are painted with intense colors as in "Fire on Water." "Let Go" has just that quality.

Renee Eaton exhibits in the gallery across the hall. Most of these pieces are watercolor and gesso, but she also uses silver and gold inks. The title of her show is "Genesis," and her reference to the Bible is consistent. "The Divine Plan" has a subtle figure in it. Indeed, most of the paintings are quiet. There is the suggestion of life forms developing out of chaos. "The Divine Plan" involves the appearance of a woman's figure. Number Eight is "And Then There Was Light." It seems to glow. Eaton develops her form through quiet relationships of color. One of the pieces with stronger color is "Apocalypse." It is not apparent that the shapes are horses, but indeed they are.

On one wall are paintings — each with a statement. I liked the one about the Florida panther. Her comment and painting concerning the recent war in the gulf was very informative, and caustic.

The oil paintings of Lyndi Angermeier can be seen in the hallways at the Pacific Grove Art Center. There are several pleasant florals. She handles warm to cool colors well. The pieces that interested me the most were in the hallway to the right. Numbers 18 through 20 are concerned with the terrain at the Pacific Grove golf course. She uses greens and violets effectively. Her warms dance against the cools.

This art center, which has big local support, schedules showings of artists from outside the area. Curiously, our local artists do not exhibit outside of the peninsula very often. It is interesting that the big names do not visit our island very often. I can remember when Fernand Leger gave a workshop at the Carmel Institute. He did not speak English, but a very attractive Mademoiselle Roux was his translator. There was also Salvator Dali, a unique phenomenon, who painted the ceiling of the Bali Room at the Del Monte Hotel for the annual artists' ball.

In China it was believed drinking wine made from aster flowers would encourage longevity.

A Bent decade

HARD TO believe, but "Monterey's Most Underground Band," Bent celebrates its 10th year of providing. . .well. . .music for the un-masses.

Bent mentor Jerry Ford (who founded the band in 1981), will celebrate in the style that only Bent is accustomed to starting at 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 24 at the new studios of Ford's other venture, KCAH-25, public access television, at 843 South Main St., in Salinas.

The event, appropriately called "A Decade of Weirdness," is a benefit for KCAH-25, a fledgling station if there ever was one. All ages are invited, and, as the flier says, "Parental Discretion Advised; Not Recommended for Pregnant Woman (whoever she is); Not Responsible for Accidents." (Italics mine.)

As for Bent, Ford, who is also responsible for the annual Pelican Bent-a-Fit Ball, teamed up with friend Derek Dean 10 years ago to challenge all rules of rock 'n' roll success and provide an alternative to good taste, appearing at the county fair in October with a Christmas show that featured one hour of feedback. Bent also "performs" with power tools and meat (not necessarily together), and its members change from show to show. The Aug. 24 performance will feature the mysterious Llord Nakcor on guitar, Anonymous Victims on bass and drums and Roger C. Henderson, who will play himself.

Videos of local bands will be shown and the entire sheebang will be videotaped for future unnamed purposes. All that for only $3 a head.

For more information, call 754-1540. Volunteers are also needed for the station, from technicians to on-air personalities. A unique opportunity to get in on the ground floor.

AN EXCELLENT new rock band made its public debut Saturday night in Carmel Valley and if that evening's performance is any indication, the band may soon have a large following on the peninsula.

Full of youthful energy and great sonics, the band, Lunatic Fringe, has been kicking around for the past few years, rehearsing, but never playing in public, until Saturday. Drummer/vocalist Moses Feurman, guitarist/vocalist Matt Searles and bassist/vocalist Justin Perry have been together for four or five years and recently added guitarist/vocalist Aaron Thomas to the lineup, giving the band some experience and stability.

Unfortunately, the band couldn't find a PA system on such short notice so they were left without vocals. Even so, the strong tunes, played with a Red Hot Chili Peppers-like fervor, shined through. They even played a slashing version of a Stevie Ray Vaughn tune.

The band, by the way, is looking for a lead vocalist, so if you know anyone, or aspire to be one, call Aaron at 649-4342 or Moses at 649-3815.

Now all that needs to be done is to get a little seasoning and some club owner interested in booking them.

WHILE WE'RE on the subject of local bands, Lovers & Strangers are still courting the powers-that-be, releasing a three-song demo produced by Mark Needham (who engineered Chris Isaak's hit Heart Shaped World) at Alpha & Omega Studios in San Rafael.

The demo, which as its name suggests is still rough around the edges, has a Steve Sippel/Ray Bertolino ballad, I Want It All, that's attracting some attention from record industry suits, another Bertolino ballad, Love Goes By, and a Sippel/Bertolino rocker, Crazy.

For my money (such as it is), I've heard better recordings by the band (and better tunes), but the song I Want It All shows promise and is the type of tune that has commercial potential. Unfortunately, for all the talent involved both in front of and behind the boards, the song comes across as tired, listless, and without much emotion, something the band has never been accused of lacking. In live shows the band is known for its brazen, raging, almost angry performances; hey this is a band with attitude and that's nowhere to be found on this particular demo. It may be necessary to tailor your sound at times to gain acceptance, just don't lose that edge.

The best way to hear the band (for now), is to see them live, which you can do Wednesday, Aug. 28 at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row. They're not one of the peninsula's best rock bands for nothing.

UPCOMING EVENTS with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

• Entertainment remaining for the in-progress Monterey County Fair includes the Oak Ridge Boys with Exile (Aug. 22), R&B pioneers Hank Ballard & the Midnighters (Aug. 23), and Star Search winners Sawyer Brown (Aug. 24). All groups will appear on the Garden Stage and are free with fair admission, this year $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and military, and $2 for children ages 6-12 (5 and under are free).

• "The Rich-meister makin' copies..." Sound familiar? Well the Rich-meister, The Copy Machine Guy on NBC's Saturday Night Live, will return to the left coast from whence he left and put in an appearance at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 22 at Sherwood Hall in Salinas.

Tickets for the show are available at all BASS outlets, including the one at Sherwood Hall . Show info's at 758-7477.

• At Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row: The Young Presidents (Aug. 22), The Cubes (Aug. 23-24), Backtrax (Aug. 25-26), Square Roots (Aug. 27), Lovers & Strangers (Aug. 28) and Mitch Woods and His Rocket 88s (Aug. 29).

Shows in September include: Otis Clay and Chicago Fire (Sept. 4); Marcia Ball (Sept. 9); Joanna Conner (Sept. 16); Terrance Simien & the Mallet Playboys (Sept. 17); Subdudes (Sept. 25); and Dr. Loco and His Rockin' Jalapeno Band (Sept. 26). Roy Rogers is slated to ride into town Oct. 10.

And a Nightingale Sang

And a Nightingale Sang..., an English drama set during World War II, concludes its run at the GroveMont Theater, 320 Hoffman St., Monterey. The Monterey Peninsula College Drama Department production plays through Aug. 17, with performances at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The C.P. Taylor play, written in 1977, presents one English family's day-to-day perceptions of World War II. The play begins on Sept. 3, 1939, the day on which France and England declared war on Germany, and continues through the war's end in May 1945.

Nick Zanides directs the cast which includes Suzanne Crain, Ronald Genauer, Michael Kelly, Maria Lojkovic, Mary Looram and Alan Smith.

Tickets are $8 general, $6 for students, senior citizens and military personnel. For reservations, call 649-6421, or the GroveMont Theater box office at 649-6852.

Guys and Dolls

Based on Damon Runyon's short story, "The Idyll of Miss Sara Brown," Guys and Dolls tells the musical tale of hard-shelled but soft centered Times Square riffraff being saved by Miss Sara Brown of the Save-a-Soul Mission. However, Miss Sara never expected to have her heart stolen away by Sky Masterson, one of the souls she attempts to save.

Guys and Dolls continues at The Wharf Theater. Gina Welch Hagen directs the musical, which plays through Sept. 8.

Performances are set at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Groups of 16 or more will be admitted for $8 each.

For reservations, call 372-1373 or 649-2333. The theater is located on Old Fisherman's Wharf No. 1 in Monterey.

Actors in the Adobes

Admission is free to Actors in the Adobes, staged Saturdays through Sept. 7 at the historic adobes of downtown Monterey. On Aug. 17, viewers can see the story of David Jacks (played by Jeffrey Heyer), the most hated man in Monterey, who will be interviewed by Robert Louis Stevenson (Kevin Caston). This will be staged, appropriately, in Stevenson House on Houston Street.

The Casa Soberanes on Pacific Street will be the setting for an apology by Commodore Jones (Michael Jacobs) to Angustias de la Guerra Ord (Mickie Mosley Moorer), for capturing Monterey by mistake.

Both performances begin at 10:45 a.m.

Book Bag

By VICTOR KENNEDY

Revelation Subud by Emmanuel Elliot. Dawn Chorus paperback. 100 pages. $8.95. (Available at Pilgrim's Way Books in Carmel.)

AN ENGLISH air force sergeant joins an obscure, newly-formed group called Subud in 1957. He is later appalled when he discovers his inner nature is not at all attuned to his ordinary life. He weeps openly in the presence of his brother servicemen, bemoaning the difference between what he is and what he wants to be.

(April 1957 was when a local Subud group was started in Carmel with about 40 shop owners, writers, artists, poets, musicians, spiritual guides.)

Emmanuel Elliot defines Subud in one chapter as a contact with the Power of God which manifests in each person as a vibration and leads to spontaneous movements from an inner resource.

The spiritual path is not easy for him as he undergoes a series of apparent preparations and purifications necessary for him to fulfill a mission to be revealed to him almost 30 years later.

(Subud was started by an Indonesian Muslim, Bapak Muhammad Subuh Sumohadiwidjojo, 50 years ago. Subud, until his death three years ago, was cast in Islamic explanations to define the action of the spiritual exercises which are done for half an hour twice a week. Elliot may have opened the Subud door for Christians.)

Emmanuel's experiences touch anyone who has considered following an inner prompting. From the beatific to the horrific, the span of inner and outer space is revealed. The Prophet Muhammad takes him on an outer space journey to view a device which later is incorporated into his head (spiritually). He leaves his wife and six children. The Prophet instructs him to return, and he does. He loses his "I."

Again and again he is sidetracked and tempted. His experiences include: several other loves, threatened annihilation, a new work, new names for himself, a light entering him, heart attacks, a new spiritual heart, cosmic shock treatments, his spiritual body orbiting as a satellite, visits by Mary, Christ consciousness, and a mission to spread the word that Subud's spontaneous exercies are the manifestation of the Second Coming.

The profoundness of his experiences demonstrates a courageous being following his own guidance to the nth degree. Each experience connects with some aspect of everyone's real or imaginary spiritual existence.

Each experience is a book in itself, told briefly and adeptly with the admirable conciseness of British intellect.

I called the Subud/Santa Cruz group. They comment that Subud is a wide and profound experience, and it is open to all religions or lay people. They can neither confirm nor deny Elliot's mission. Since all religions can join Subud — Subud is not a religion — the Source of any and all religions is manifest through individual members.

HAMLET IN THE WINGS

How mighty is the tiny mind of man,
That un-met self, that dark mysterious shade,
Who roams in the cobwebbed attics of the brain,
Perhaps a shadow of a larger soul,
Or vestige of a lost ancestral hope
That hears, somewhere, eternal harmonies.

How self-assured is man, and oh, how glib
To speak of countless light-years, infinite
In our external universe, and yet,
At last to find the finite when he knows
That he knows nothing farther than the thoughts
Within the compass of his eyes and ears!

His world is flat. He wanders near the vast
Horizons of his little tick of time—
And only faith can answer when he asks
The question of his immortality:
Will he fall into the black abyss,
Or will he soar beyond the blaze of dawn?

—R.H. Linn, Carmel

'No, ma'am.'

'Do you know where he is?'

'No, ma'am.'

"After a few more minutes of questioning, she dismissed me and as soon as I left her room, I was grabbed by a mob of girls who told me that Maynard had been lurking around the school grounds for several days and that he and Ariel had eloped.

"This was Grade A Triple Crown gossip and since I was the only one at all close to the protaganist, I became an instant celebrity. I was popular.

"I never heard from Ariel, nor aid anyone. I'm sure Miss Congdon did, but she didn't tell. It was not a story that she wanted to get back to the parents."

Whad'ya think, Maynard?

I say keep it open.

But they wouldn't listen to Maynard.

Thy've gone ahead and closed Mission Ranch anyway
as of Sunday, August 18th
(but only temporarily - for repairs and renovations).
Thank you for your support.
Look for our reopening date.

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

Knockout jazz

NEWSBREAK: SHANTY Malone's of Valley Hills Center will bring back extraordinary jazz pianist Milcho Leviev early next month (9/7-8). So says venue spokesman Bob Phillips.

When Leviev packed the same room several weeks ago, he said he'd enjoy a return engagement as soon as possible. Based in Los Angeles and active on the global jazz scene, Milcho has close friends who claim Carmel Valley residency.

Pianist Bob says the star will play with drummer Pete Booras and Terry Miller on electric bass (Saturday gig). Then it'll be bassist Stuart Zimney and drummer John Goldsmith (Sunday). Specific times TBA.

Phillips reminds that his own trio plays from 1-4 p.m. Sundays at Shanty Malone's. Bassist Buddy Jones and drummer Pat Tregenza complete that unit.

JAZZ PRODUCER Richard Armbrust presents a knockout event at Hidden Valley Theater on Saturday night (8/24). Appearing there and then—bassist David Friesen and German guitarist Uwe Kropinski. Both men achieve rarely-heard levels of artistry.

The program kicks off at eight o'clock. Tickets ($12.50 per or $8 for students) will be available at the door. Listeners who enjoy wine may bring their own. Info: 455-2292.

From Oregon, David has recorded more than 20 albums as a leader. He's a man of deep faith and inspiration who was voted most valuable musician at Monterey Jazz Festival in 1977.

One critic wrote about Kropinski: "He's not a guitar player; he's a guitar."

BEGINNING THE first Friday in September (9/6), KRML Jazz Radio will air recorded excerpts from past years—33 editions— of Monterey Jazz Fest live performances. Station honcho Gil Wisdom says the material will run between 4-7 p.m. weekdays through Sept. 19.

Gil advises too that KRML (1410AM) will simulcast the KJAZ Radio live broadcasts of this year's MJF. (KJAZ won exclusive rights and then invited other stations to hook into its feeds.) KRML scheduling includes: 6 p.m. till midnight (9/20), noon till midnight (9/21), 1 p.m. till midnight (9/22).

KUSP Radio (88.9FM) also accepted the KJAZ offer. The times announced by this station include an 8:30 start on the Friday night, 1:30 kick-off for Saturday afternoon (blues bash), 8:15 Saturday night, 12:30 and 7:30 Sunday (high school competition winners followed by regular arena programming that evening).

SPUNKY DIRECTOR Kathleen Tarp from Carmel Valley Comunity Youth Center announces a free jazz concert there on September's first Sunday (9/1). The four-hour event will commence at 2 p.m. with flutist Kenny Stahl's quintet claiming spotlight time. (Brazilian adept Weber Drummond on keyboards.)

"We invite everyone to come picnic on our lawn in the sun while listening," Kathleen says. "Any profits from the sale of beverages and barbecue go toward our center renovation fund. We'll open our pool for free that day."

PUBLIC TELEVISION station KQED will celebrate the rich tradition of gospel music via three special programs airing on Monday evening (8/26). Slated are Going Home to Gospel with Patti LaBelle (8 p.m.), Take 6 (9:30) and Gospel Explosion (10:45).

The first incorporates performances by Patti, The Mighty Clouds of Joy, Edwin Hawkins, Barrett Sisters, Albertina Walker, others. The a capella sextet Take 6 combines gospel with jazz harmonics. The third puts forth five gospel groups.

SIGHT BITES: Ace Hill Trio plays Monterey Plaza Hotel's Jazz on the Bay Series. Sunday from noon till four (8/25) on the lower terrace.

Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz presents The Yellowjackets on Friday evening (8/23). Shows at 7:30 and 9:30; $17 per. The group now features excellent saxist Bob Mintzer along with Russell Ferrante (keyboards), Jimmy Haslip (bass), William Kennedy (drums).

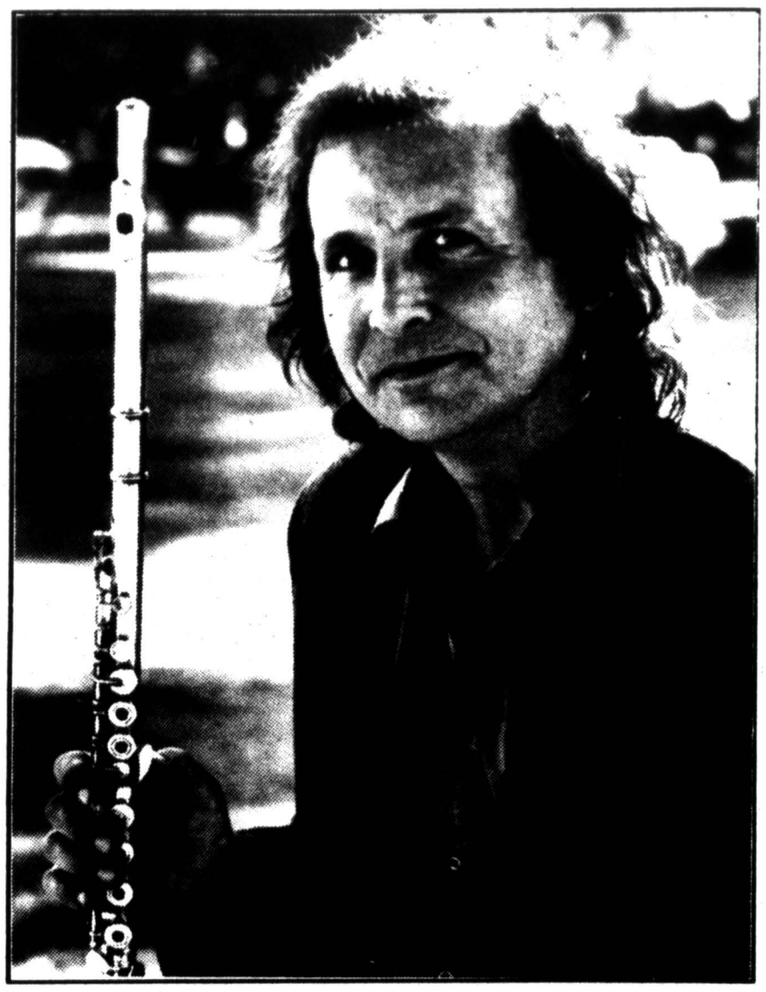
Monterey Bay Club: Terry Hanck (8/23-24), Jackie Coon Quartet (8/27-28), Kevin Feeney (8/29-30-31).

Brazilian percussionist Helcio Milito continues Thursdays through Saturdays at Traps Lounge (Spanish Bay). Partner Weber Drummond has returned from his vacation in Rio.

Bill Wise holds down piano chores at Sandbar and Grill. Tuesday through Saturday nights.

Barbara Murphy's Portofino Coffee House has free Sunday evening jazz — the Joe Lucido Band. Downstairs in Pacific Grove Plaza.

Branford Marsalis plays Buena Vista Winery in Sonoma on Saturday night (8/24). Call 1-800-926-1266 for details.



KENNY STAHL will front the band for a free jazz concert at Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, Sunday Sept. 1. The four-hour event kicks off at 2 p.m.

Foster care families needed

The Office of Community and Children's Services needs homes willing to share their families with children who need an alternative home—whether it be for six months or the whole year - while family reunification services are offered, or eventually a permanent home. Almost every currently licensed foster home is filled, the office reports. For information about fostering or adopting a child, call 899-8061 or 755-4660.

There are ways to stop abuse

Across the United States a woman is physically abused every 15 seconds. The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula offers help to women who feel trapped in a potentially harmful situation through counseling, a 24-hour crisis line and a shelter for battered women and their children. If you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship, let them know there is a way out. Contact the YWCA Domestic Violence Crisis Line at 372-6300.

The Drunkard

The 496th production featuring the Troupers of the Gold Coast is the melodramatic classic, The Drunkard. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays at California's First Theatre.

The Drunkard serves to show the wages of drink when a totally respectable Edward Middleton becomes downtrodden after being tempted with liquor. Of course, as in all good melodramas, all ends well with Edward back in the loving arms of his family.

Following the play, the Troupers present their Olio (or aftershow).

The box office opens at 1 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. The theater is at Scott and Pacific in downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $7 for adults, $5.50 for seniors and teens, and $4.50 for sub-teens. For reservations, call 375-4916.

A Flea in Her Ear

The Western Stage will play the quintessential French bedroom farce, A Flea in Her Ear, in the Studio Theater of Hartnell College, Salinas. Just as Oscar Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest is considered prime British comedy, so has A Flea in Her Ear endured as the epitome of the modern French farce. Georges Feydeau wrote nearly 40 plays and this is not only his most popular, but perhaps his very best.

The production is directed by Walter Schoen. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 20-21. Hartnell College is at 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

Tickets are $10 on Sundays and Thursdays and $12 on Fridays and Saturdays. For reservations, call 375-2111 or 755-6816.

Something Wicked This Way Comes

What if someone discovers your secret dream, that one great wish you would give anything for? And what if that person suddenly makes your dream come true — before you learn the price you have to pay? This masterwork of dark fantasy by Ray Bradbury has been newly adapted by the playwright and dramaturg Joyce Lower for The Western Stage.

Something Wicked This Way Comes continues in the Studio Theater at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. It plays in repertory with A Flea in Her Ear through Aug. 26.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Aug. 15-17; and at both 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 18.

Tickets on Sundays and Thursdays are $10 and on Fridays and Saturdays are $12.

For additional information or reservations, call 375-2111 or 755-6816.

Fragile as glass

THE FOREST Theater Guild is currently presenting The Glass Menagerie by Tennessee Williams at Cherry Hall, Fourth and Guadalupe in Carmel through Sept. 15. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 7 p.m. on Sundays. Here, Kent Carlson as the Gentleman Caller is given a unicorn by Ivy Cates as Laura. The cast also includes Ann Mattingly and Christopher Heimer. The play is directed by Sandy Williams.

SPCA needs towels, blankets, paper

The SPCA of Monterey County, needs towels, sheets, blankets, pillowcases and newspaper for use in the animal shelter and wildlife center.

Blankets are used as comforters for the many puppies who are brought into the shelter.

The greatest demand is for clean towels in both the shelter and especially the wildlife center.

Newspapers are used in the cat litter pans.

Donated items can be delivered to The SPCA of Monterey County animal shelter, 1002 Monterey Salinas Highway 68 (five miles east of the Monterey Peninsula Airport), any day of the week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If the donor has a significant quantity and cannot deliver the items, arrangements can be made to pick them up.

For further information, call 373-2631, ext. 221.

Survivors of incest gather

Survivors of Incest Anonymous, a 12-step recovery program for women age 18 or older, meets 7 to 9 a.m. each Friday.

There are no dues or fees. The program is open to women who have been abused by a family member or anyone the child trusted. For more information, contact Bobbi Mosley at 899-4131.

Crisis Line volunteers needed

The Community Counseling Center seeks crisis line volunteers. People interested in learning counseling and communication skills and who want a meaningful way to become involved in the community should call Cathy Smith at the center, 590 Pearl St., Monterey, 373-4775.

Lunch hour yoga at Sunset Center

Tri-Yoga Fitness Formulas are now being offered from noon to 1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Tri-Yoga Academy of Carmel, located in Room 17 at Sunset Center, 10th and San Carlos, Carmel.

Stretching and strengthening exercises, complete breathing and dynamic concentration, and deep relaxation are included in each class. Each class contains a complete fitness program, and the classes are ongoing. Students may take any or all of the classes.

Other Tri-Yoga classes meet every weekday at the academy, at 6:15 a.m., 7 a.m. and 6 p.m., and on Saturdays at 9 a.m. Beginning Sept. 3, there will be classes at 9 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Class fees are $7 for one class; $35 for six classes; $75 for unlimited classes per month. Discounts are given to students and senior citizens. For additional information, call 624-4949, 649-2394 or 625-9854.

There are ways to stop abuse

Across the United States a woman is physically abused every 15 seconds. The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula offers help to women who feel trapped in a potentially harmful situation through counseling, a 24-hour crisis line and a shelter for battered women and their children. If you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship, let them know there is a way out. Contact the YWCA Domestic Violence Crisis Line at 372-6300.

Foster care families needed

The Office of Community and Children's Services needs homes willing to share their families with children who need an alternative home—whether it be for six months or the whole year - while family reunification services are offered, or eventually a permanent home. Almost every currently licensed foster home is filled, the office reports. For information about fostering or adopting a child, call 899-8061 or 755-4660.
